

MASSSES OF BRITISH BOMBERS PULVERIZE NAZI WEST WALL NEAR DUNKIRK, CALAIS

Crosses, Row on Row—Bonds Will Help Stop This.

Think of Them

Maybe it's just that hypodermic needle, the morphine and the sulfa drugs your boy has in his pack. You'd want him to have them if he were wounded and left on the field for hours before the tide of battle could cease enough to allow him to be picked up.

You'd want him to have it—but, have you bought one for him? We, as a people, finance our war by buying bonds and paying taxes. We have a bond drive on and the money is needed. It must supply our Army and Navy men—equip them, feed them, hospitalize them.

Maybe your son is a flyer. If he gets forced down at sea he will have a rubber raft on which he may float when his plane sinks. You wouldn't want him to be a bond?

You bought him one? With a bond?

That Flying Fortress or Liberator your son flies in—it is one of the best. You want him to have the best. It costs, with all its guns and all the many fine instruments they have, almost $500,000. Have you bought your share of one?

A large bomb—the sort you've often said you'd like to drop on Hitler—costs about $2,000.

Have you bought the one you wanted to drop?

Maybe you think there is too much noise about bond drives, too many speeches, too many requests. Well, none of it will wake from death any man who has died for you and the rest of us. Maybe you saw that picture of the American soldiers, dead on the beach at Buna.

The noise of the bond campaign won't wake them. But it will end the war sooner and it will thereby save the lives of other soldiers.

Wednesday morning there was reported what General Marshall told the American Legion convention the night before.

He said the big attacks, and all of ours have been relatively small ones to date, were near at hand.

The people at home have not been called upon for a great deal. You are asked now to do without something you want. You are asked to give up something, to put your savings into war bonds, to spend some of your salary for war bonds even though the victory tax is cutting deep.

Buying bonds isn't giving. It is investing.

Georgia is not meeting her quota in this campaign.

Every bond, small and large, helps. This time really make a sacrifice to buy.

What have you bought for the man you know in the Army or Navy—your son, your neighbor's boy—to use in the big attacks ahead?

Think it over and do something about it today.

Smolensk But 9 Miles From Russian Sweep

LONDON, Sept. 23.—(AP)—The Red Army smashed to within 9-mile artillery range of Smolensk today, further flanked Kiev, and toppled the Ukraine citadel of Poltava to engulf German defenses along a 300-mile stretch just short of the middle Dnieper river.

A Soviet communiqué announced the capture of Buzanovo, nine miles northeast of the German central stronghold of Smolensk, and Pochinok, 19 miles to the southeast, as Soviet armies, plunging westward, overran 865 more towns and villages along the huge front.

Surging toward White Russia the Red Army also captured Unecha, rail junction midway between Bryansk and Gomel, and the Moscow radio said Soviet troops already had crossed into that territory adjoining Poland.

A Berlin broadcast acknowledged the peril to Smolensk, Kiev, Cherkassk and other eastern front bastions; admitted the loss of Poltava, said Soviet troops had broken into Rostov below Smolensk, and also stated "a few small" Russian detachments had reached the Dnieper river.

The German military commentator, Captain Ludwig Sertorius, said the Red Army's offensive was "the most gigantic of the entire eastern campaign," and that the wide Soviet pincer move on the Ukraine capital of Kiev was being pressed with "extraordinary violence."

Moscow dispatches said the battle of Dnepropetrovsk had begun

MacArthur Rift Cleared; Laid To Aussie Press

By WILLIAM FRYE.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—(P)—General MacArthur suggested the strategy now used against the Japanese in the Pacific, it was said in high quarters today, and the major blows at present are being delivered under his immediate command.

At the same time Secretary of War Stimson asserted that the commands of MacArthur in the southwest Pacific and of Lord Louis Mountbatten in southeast Asia do not overlap.

The question of the extent of MacArthur's command, and of the extent to which his advice has been heeded or ignored by the high command, drew attention because of the statement issued by MacArthur two days ago, implying that he has been relegated to a subordinate position, and that his plans for smashing at the vitals of the enemy have been bypassed for a more cautious approach.

Public Furor.

The statement stirred up a public furor, coming as it did on the eve of expected big offensives against the Japanese, not only in the Pacific, but under Mountbatten's command in Burma and the Indian ocean, where the end of the monsoon season this month opens the weather for large-scale operations.

If MacArthur's statement puzzled the public, it seemed to puzzle Washington officialdom fully as much. The impression now, however, is that it was directed, not at the Allied high command, but at comments of Australian newspapers opposed to the government of Prime Minister Curtin.

The papers had asserted that Mountbatten would overshadow, and might even supersede MacArthur—a development, incidentally which would have been unpopular in Australia as in this country. Furthermore, they tagged MacArthur with sponsoring "island hopping" strategy.

MacArthur Furious.

The latter alone was enough to infuriate MacArthur, who has consistently opposed the tedious process of tightening the ring around Japan by methodical seizure of island outposts and has instead advocated what he terms broad and massive strategic strokes. However curious its terms, then, MacArthur's statement is regarded here as an answer to Australian newspapers—and possibly also to similar implications in a statement made in the southwest Pacific by Senator Chandler, Democrat, Kentucky.

In the wake of all the clamor over what MacArthur might have meant, it can be stated on high, if unquotable, authority:

(1) There is at present no controversy between MacArthur and the War Department, between MacArthur and the high command.

(2) Nothing happened at Quebec to change MacArthur's status, the Quebec conference confining itself—as far as the war with Japan is concerned—to plans affecting Mountbatten's new command and to operations in China.

(3) As far as operations in the southwest and south Pacific, and the co-ordinated operations in the central Pacific, are concerned, the broad decisions were reached at Casablanca. Details were settled at a conference of Pacific staff officers in Washington last spring.

MacArthur's plan was adopted virtually intact, and MacArthur is now engaged in carrying it out. Northern Pacific operations are outside his realm.

Yugoslavs Penetrate Trieste After Clashes With Germans

Docks at Naples Are Destroyed; Capture Looms

By The Associated Press.

Slovene troops of the Yugoslav army are reported to have penetrated the Italian Adriatic port of Trieste, fighting the German garrison there with the aid of inhabitants.

Yugoslavs having communication with partisan armies fighting bloody battles in northwestern Yugoslavia said other Slovene formations have occupied Idria, 30 miles northeast of Trieste and 50 miles north of Fiume, exerting pressure on both Italian ports.

Elsewhere troops were said to be fighting heavy engagements on a 50-mile front from Bistrica to Ljubljana.

The Algiers radio said the Yugoslavs were shelling Fiume from Susak, just across the frontier, and reported street fighting in Trieste. The broadcast was repeated by BBC, which was recorded by CBS.

The Budapest radio, quoting a Zagreb dispatch, declared the Germans had captured Susak. This broadcast was recorded by the Associated Press.

An area 55 miles north of Durrës was reported under siege by Montenegrins after they captured the coast town of Ucinj and the summer resort of Petrovac. The Italian "Taurinence" division, with its commanding general, was said to have gone over to Yugoslav partisan units now fighting the Germans.

In a wide area around Banja Luka, Croatia divisions were said to have destroyed German railway facilities at Nova Gradiska and Novakapeli.

The German air force and artillery practically destroyed Novomesto on the Krk river, 20 miles northeast of Banja Luka, a Yugoslav authority said.

There were some estimates that the war equipment of about four out of 20 Italian divisions in the northern part of the country had fallen into the hands of the Yugoslavs.

Madrid quoted reports from both Italian and Balkan sources which said that not only Fiume but the whole German grip on the Istrian peninsula was threatened by swift-moving, well-armed guerrilla bands in communication with partisan forces holding Susak and part of the Adriatic coast.

A number of Adriatic island craft were said to have been armed with guns left by Italians. At Novi a landing party of nearly 100 German sailors was reported.

Arnall Calls Prison Board To Office for 'Showdown'

World Relief Scheme Ready For Approval

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—(P)—A revised scheme of global relief for victims of global war was projected tonight by the State Department in inviting Allied nations to a White House meeting to sign an agreement.

Secretary of State Hull made public the text of the proposed agreement, which provides power for a director general of relief and rehabilitation to operate all over the world within limits set by a central committee from the United States, Britain, China and Russia.

This central committee, in turn, is made responsible to a council from all participating nations in which small and large alike are given equal voice.

Representatives of 42 united and associated nations and the French Committee of National Liberation were invited to send representatives here for the signing early in November.

Hull noted that the agreement has been considerably modified since the first tentative text was submitted last June. Suggestions made by various governments had been incorporated, he said.

The chief modification appears to have been in making the big draft text to conform with the desires of various governments, it will not be necessary to hold a United Nations conference to discuss general problems of relief or further revision of the agreement.

The formal meeting at the White House, he explained, will be simply for the ceremony of signature "if the draft is acceptable to the other governments."

Hull told a press conference that, inasmuch as nearly a year has been consumed in preliminary discussions and in revision of the draft text to conform with the desires of various governments, it will not be necessary to hold a United Nations conference to discuss general problems of relief or further revision of the agreement.

Legion Urges World Coalition for Peace

OMAHA, Sept. 23.—(AP)—The American Legion indorsed today participation by the United States in an association "of free and sovereign nations" in the postwar world, and at the same time threw its support behind administration war manpower policies, which include drafting of pre-Pearl Harbor fathers.

The indorsements were contained in committee reports accepted at the closing session of the 25th annual convention, at which Warren Atherton, 51, Stockton, Cal., attorney, was elected national commander. He succeeds Roane Waring, of Memphis, Tenn.

Participation with other nations in a postwar association was recommended in a report by the Legion's foreign relations committee, and adopted by the convention in a voice vote.

The report emphasized that such a move is the method by which "our nation can best serve and protect its natural interests."

Support of present draft policies was contained in a report presented by the national defense committee, which declared that General George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff, has stated that 7,700,000 men are needed by December 31, 1943.

"As this figure has been based upon a definite strategic plan and worked out by experts, any authority who undertakes to change this figure, recommended as a minimum for the plan envisaged, must assume the responsibility for the effect upon the plan which may result from such change," the report said.

Former Governor John Steele, of Illinois, demanded from the convention floor whether that portion of the report should be interpreted as giving 100 per cent co-operation to General Marshall in present manpower draft plans.

Major General Frank Parker, retired, of Chicago, who delivered the report, replied "yes" and affirmation came also from Waring.

Great Forces Also Strike Far Into Continent

By GLADWIN HILL.

LONDON, Friday, Sept. 24.—(P)—A great concentration of British bombers made a pulverizing assault against Hitler's west wall defenses between Dunkirk and Calais early today while another strong force roared out for a new and deeper assault within the continent.

Great explosions shook the English coast 20 miles away. Scores of enemy searchlights and bursting shells stabbed the skies while the bombers poured tons of explosives on the fortifications guarding the French invasion coast.

The roar of heavy bombers as they went out in a long procession over Dover straits continued more than an hour. Within a few minutes after the flights started the Berlin, Koenigsberg, Leipzig, Paris and Luxembourg radios were silenced.

These night assaults climaxed a tremendous 24-hour bombing offensive—perhaps the greatest yet—against German continental air and sea bases and industrial targets on a front 500 miles long and more than 200 miles deep from the west coast of France to the north coast of Germany.

During that period at least 14 targets were blasted by heavy and medium bomber armadas. German planes made insignificant raids on areas of East Anglia and the northeast coast. Neither property damage nor casualties were reported.

The U. S. Eighth Air Force staged its first double-header in 14 months of operations with twin daylight raids on the Nazi submarine base at Nantes by Flying Fortresses, while Marauders ranged deep into France for two attacks on German airfields.

A joint British and American communiqué said the Fortresses in their morning attack on docks and shipyards at Nantes destroyed nine enemy fighters while four more fell to the guns of escorting American fighters.

Ellis Arnall Becomes Bonehead At Rollicking Session of Club

By LAMAR Q. BALL.
Georgia's Governor Arnall submitted himself willingly yesterday to classification as a bonehead.

Two or three dozen other boneheads tried to ensnare today's young Governor of their state as a worthy Georgia-bred product—straightforward, honest, kindly, intelligent and aggressive.

But the Governor would have none of it.

"I'm just a bonehead," he told members of Atlanta's Bonehead Club.

So, the Boneheads accepted him into their fold.

The question—whether Arnall should or should not be accepted as one of the Atlanta Boneheads—was put before the house.

The vote was unanimous. Everyone voted a resounding "No!"

That means "Yes!" in the parliamentary procedure of the Boneheads.

All of this was the result of Ellis Arnall being the honor guest at the meeting of the Bonehead Club of Atlanta at the Ansley hotel yesterday.

Governor Gets Dolls.
The Governor—an acknowledged and accepted Bonehead—walked out of the gathering of the Boneheads with two small dolls tucked under his arms. They were baby dolls. Each wore a diaper and nothing else. Each had tacked on the bottom: "I wanna vote, Governor."

The Boneheads put the Governor on the spot during and after the luncheon. They kidded him about his fight for the vote of the 18-year-olds and they kidded him about his job of rewriting the constitution of Georgia.

Bonehead Julian Boehm read a revised Georgia constitution that was more sensible and timely than any the Governor will offer from his assigned writers later in the year.

Along with the Governor were his executive secretary, M. E. Thompson, expected to be installed soon as Georgia's prison director, and Lon Duckworth, chairman of the Georgia Democratic executive committee.

The Boneheads accepted only the Governor.

Chief Bonehead Wynne read a revised Georgia constitution that was more sensible and timely than any the Governor will offer from his assigned writers later in the year.

Russia Regains 300,000 Square Miles

LONDON, Sept. 23.—(P)—Russia's great offensives, crowned today with penetration into White Russia and a smash to within nine miles of Smolensk, is estimated to have regained 300,000 square miles, or 60 per cent of the half-million square miles Germany once held in the Soviet Union proper.

Germany now holds but 200,000 square miles of territory in Russia.

RUSSIANS NEAR KEY POINTS—Rampant Russian forces have swept into White Russia for the first time since Hitler overran the republic early in the war and are coiled for the final spring at Gomel, less than 150 miles from the Polish border. Meanwhile, Soviet troops have stormed within nine miles of the great German defense bastion of Smolensk. Also shown on the black line denoting the current tide of Russian fortunes, Kiev, capital of the rich Ukraine, is threatened by the Soviet sweep. Broken line west of the current front indicates boundary of White Russia. The next few days are expected to determine if the Russian summer offensive, now in the third month, will be halted at the Dnieper.

Tired Feet Rest As Elevators Resume Service

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—(P)—Rockefeller Center's thousands, many of them weary from climbing endless flights of stairs, were cheered today by a partial restoration of service disrupted by a walkout of elevator attendants.

As the work stoppage neared the end of its first full day, 70 of the 195 elevators in 12 affected buildings were in operation. The Center management promised 25 more before the start of the evening rush hour.

Meanwhile, two striking operators were arrested, charged with disorderly conduct in threatening another who was running one of the elevators. The two later were paroled in Jefferson Market court for hearing Monday.

Buildings included the 70-story RCA building, the 39-story International building, the 36-story Time and Life building, the 15-story Associated Press building, the 31-story RKO building and others.

Rail Strike of 2,600 Ordered This Morning

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 23.—(P) The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers' grievance committee tonight voted a strike of 2,600 workers of the Pacific Electric Interurban Railway for 4 a. m. central war time Friday as scheduled despite a last-minute move by President Roosevelt to avert it.

The railway serves 400,000 passengers daily between Los Angeles and 55 adjacent communities.

Food Raising Abroad To Be Bossed by OEW

By OVID A. MARTIN.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—(AP)—The government is contemplating a sharply increased program of developing foreign food productive resources to help meet war and post-war rehabilitation needs.

Such a program was inaugurated by the United States last year. Authority over it was divided, however, between the Office of Economic Warfare and the Agriculture Department.

As a move to expand the program, the Office of War Mobilization has prepared an executive order transferring Agriculture Department phases to the OEW. The order is now on President Roosevelt's desk, and officials at both agencies said today they expect it to be signed by this weekend.

Under the present administrative setup, the OEW has authority to recommend programs designed to encourage production of foods in foreign lands. But those programs cannot be put into operation without approval of the Agriculture Department, particularly the latter agency's Commodity Credit Corporation, because it provides the necessary funds.

During the past year, the CCC often turned down OEW recommendations upon the contention that the food production and purchase programs either were uneconomic or involved the guarantee of excessive prices.

The OEW, on the other hand, drew pictures of vast food production possibilities in foreign lands. The Agriculture Department took a less optimistic view.

This difference of opinion cropped up recently in a report issued by a food advisory committee headed by E. W. Gaumnitz, then an official of the OEW. That report scored what it called the failure of the United States and Great Britain to tap foreign food resources.

The Agriculture Department apparently was putting up no opposition to the proposed transfer of its functions. It was understood that the presidential order would give the State Department general supervision over the foreign food program in so far as foreign policy is concerned.

Reports were circulated that the OEW would ask W. I. Myers, of Cornell University, to take over the program. Myers formerly was governor of the Farm Credit Administration.

Martial Law Imposed On Hankow After Clashes

CHUNGKING, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Clashes between Japanese soldiers and puppet Chinese police in the great central China city of Hankow has led to the imposition of martial law on that city, dispatches said today.

The Japanese-controlled police were reported to have turned on the soldiers, killing three of them, after three policemen were bayoneted by drunken Japanese.

Fair's Gates Ajar, Boy Patrol Guests

By AL SHARP.

The Southeastern World's Fair will open a 10-day stand at Lakewood park today at 10 a. m. The opening day will honor county and state school children, with 1,000 members of the schoolboy patrol as guests of the fair.

Col. F. K. Ross Will Command Ft. McPherson

Colonel Frank K. Ross has arrived to assume his duties as commanding officer of Fort McPherson. He will succeed Colonel Clifford C. Early, who will retire from active duty on October 1.

Colonel Ross, a field artillery officer, was assistant sector commander of the northern California sector, Western Defense Command, before being transferred here. He was stationed at The Presidio, San Francisco.

Colonel Ross.

Colonel Early, commanding officer at the post for the past three years and stationed here for two years prior to that in charge of reserve officers for the Fourth Corps Area, has bought a home at 231 Peachtree Battle avenue and he and Mrs. Early will continue to live in Atlanta.

"I have been all over the world," Colonel Early said, "but I haven't found any place I'd rather live. I like Atlanta and its people."

The new commanding officer served with distinction in World War I. He became a colonel in 1937. His immediate prewar service included a tour of duty as intelligence officer on the staff of the commanding general of the Second Corps Area and as a member of the War Department General Staff Corps, acting as Army representative on the staff of the co-ordinator of information at Washington.

Colonel Ross, who is a cousin of Major General Frank R. McCoy, former commanding general of the Fourth Corps Area, was accompanied to Atlanta by his daughter, Mrs. George E. Lynch, whose husband, Lieutenant Colonel Lynch, is intelligence officer with the Eighty-second Airborne Division. His other daughter is Mrs. William B. Force, of Washington, wife of Colonel Force, who is in the infantry.

BOYS AHEAD OF GIRLS.
BAINESVILLE, Ga., Sept. 23.—The old belief that during war more boy babies than girls are born is running true in Lamar county, according to a report of a Barnesville physician. He states that according to his records for the past few weeks he had delivered seven boys, then a girl, then seven more boys.

First event on the full program is the state-wide spelling contest which will be held in the Agriculture building at 10 o'clock.

Features of the 29th annual fair include food conservation and preservation exhibits, displays sponsored by the WACS, WAVES and the Atlanta Ordnance Depot and buildings packed tight with poultry, eggs, horses, mules, cows and hogs, as well as the usual midway rides and amusements and a ten-act free show at the grandstand.

Cannery a "First."
"Firsts" on this year's program include a cannery which will operate in the Agriculture building and a typical school farm workshop where Future Farmers of America members will demonstrate repairs on equipment. Harness racing will return after a 10-year layoff, with programs scheduled tomorrow afternoon, Monday, Thursday and the last day of the fair, a week from tomorrow.

The food situation, dear to the hearts of Uncle Sam and all his nieces and nephews right now, is well taken care of in the Agriculture building, where Sid Truitt, Fulton county agent, is in charge.

A series of exhibits shows the means and methods of supplying our armed forces with food and saving food on the home front. First display includes the food in its natural state—big luscious pumpkins, corn, potatoes, peanuts, fruits and vegetables. This exhibit is sponsored by 4-H clubs.

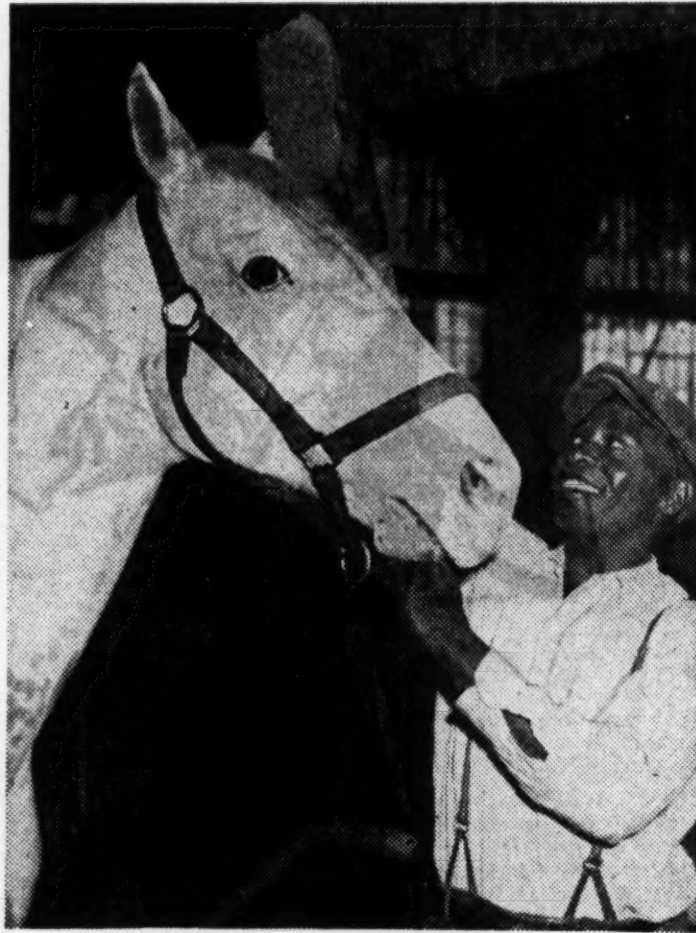

Witness Canning.
Then comes the cannery, where visitors to the fair may have food canned while they watch. Appointments must be made in advance and those having food canned must supply the vegetables or fruit.

Dehydration is explained in another booth with pictures and the actual results. Use of dehydrators has resulted in saving millions of cubic feet of space in ships carrying food to fighting forces. It's easy to see why after observing what dehydration will do to a bushel of peaches, for example. The bushel of peaches, with food values intact, becomes a quantity small enough to go into a few paper bags.

While the vocational agricultural division of the State Department of Education, FFA and 4-H clubs were arranging their exhibitions, livestock and poultry raisers were busy installing their prizes and joys in the pens and stalls of the buildings assigned them.

All of the livestock and chickens had not arrived yesterday, but the largest number to be shown in years is expected this time. Governor Arnall will speak at the luncheon for members of the Georgia Press Association who will be guests at the fair tomorrow.

DEPARTMENT STORE SALES.
Alabama department store sales showed an increase of 31 per cent for last week over the same period a year ago, while the national average increase was 17 per cent, according to the Federal Reserve Bank report.

GETTIN' READY—Mildred Roberts (left) and Nora Claxton, of the vocational agricultural division of the State Department of Education, were busy getting a booth ready at the fair. Pictures show how to can.

WHAT PIES THAT'LL MAKE—Sid Truitt, Fulton county agent, who is in charge of the agriculture building, looks plenty happy as he holds up one of the pumpkins which will be in a booth sponsored by 4-H clubs.

SOOEY! SOOEY!—Duroc Jerseys, owned by Henry T. Lumsden, of Talbotton, Ga. (on truck), were unloaded and put in pens at the livestock building at the fair grounds. Horses, cows and mules also came in yesterday.

Mrs. DeJarnette of WMC Is Too Chic for Ghost Writer

By MARIE SMITH.

Sweet and feminine in appearance and certainly not looking as you might expect a "ghost-writer" of speeches and handbooks to look, Mrs. Tennie de Jarnette, who has done such writing for almost every woman's civic organization in the state, has assumed duties as chief of the information division of the regional War Manpower Commission.

She will now write and edit the releases of information on regional WMC activities as well as "put the words in the mouth" of speakers representing the regional office.

Her appointment as a successor to Harvey Allen, "Anthony Adverse" author, who resigned recently to resume book writing, upholds the War Manpower Commission's strict policy of utilizing the womanpower of America when it is qualified for a man's job.

The thirteenth person to be interviewed by Harvey Allen last spring when he needed an assistant, she was employed and has served since that time as an assistant information representative for the regional WMC, which includes Georgia, Alabama, Florida, South Carolina, Tennessee and Mississippi.

For eight years Mrs. de Jarnette was assistant information officer and education representative for the regional office of the United States Forest Service here, which serves 11 states. She has also been prominently connected with the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, the Daughters of the American Revolution, the United Daughters of the Confederacy, Girl Scouts, Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion, and the Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

As feminine and chic as the typical American business woman, she has assumed the increased duties and responsibilities with a determination to uphold the WMC's belief that a woman can perform a "man's job," regardless of weight or duties.

As regional information representative she is in charge of the maintenance of all public information and public relation activities of the WMC within this region and the planning and co-ordinating of information programs and campaigns in collaboration with area directors of the WMC and state directors of the United States Employment Service.

Patriarch Sergei, of the Russian Orthodox Church, entertained at dinner honoring the Church of England delegation.

MANPOWER HEAD—Mrs. Tennie de Jarnette is a woman who holds a big job in the manpower setup. She is WMC information representative in this region.

War in Italy

wiped out and its launches seized. The British radio said "at least seven separate engagements are now being fought in the Fiume area." It said Idris was the seat of one of the biggest mercury mines in Europe.

Naples waterfront, scuttled 30 ships to block the harbor and wrecked industrial and rail centers in the great Italian metropolis in apparent preparation for evacuation as Allied armies lunged within sight and sound of the wholesale destruction.

Battle for Corsica.
The battle for Corsica was in its final stage. French troops and American Rangers closed in on Bastia, northeast port of Napoleon's island birthplace, cutting off German escape. General Henri Giraud, French commander in chief, predicted that all Germans on the island would be ousted or killed "from 10 to 15 days."

Advances of from 10 to 15 miles in central and southern Italy put great chunks of land behind the straightening Allied lines.

The whole German left flank in the Salerno area, 20 to 40 miles south of Naples, was pried loose and turned inland. The American Fifth and British Eighth armies were advancing and forcing Marshal Albert Kesselring to draw grudgingly back on the interior approaches to flaming Naples.

Ginosa, Avigliano and Acerno fell. The British radio said Auletta and Contursi had been captured. Auletta is 36 miles southeast of Salerno on the road to Potenza. Contursi is 26 miles southeast of Salerno, and there the Germans admitted "a dent made by the enemy in our positions."

A French communique said the Germans lost heavily in men and material near the tiny Corsican seaport of Solenzara, 60 miles south of Bastia on the east coast. A small number of Rangers are fighting alongside the French and Corsican patriots in the battle. Bastia was bombed again, and flight routes between Corsica and L'ghorn and Elba were constantly patrolled. The French bulletin said:

"Allied navies and air forces are maintaining a very effective blockade of the eastern coast of the island, making it difficult for the enemy to evacuate material or personnel by sea or by air."

German air power over the entire Mediterranean appeared to be in a state of collapse. The Allies feared German ships leaving Corsica, roamed freely over southern Italy to crash high explosives among the fleeing foe, and bombed objectives in Greece, Rhodes and Crete without molestation.

Almost no Nazi aircraft were reported anywhere along the 1,500-mile Mediterranean front, and huge Allied ship convoys moved at will.

Most of the Allied land gains in Italy were north of Taranto and above the instep of the Italian boot as the reinforced British Eighth Army and British Fifth Corps pushed forward on the heels of Germans retreating northward toward the cluster of major air fields around Foggia.

Ginosa is 25 miles northwest of Taranto and 14 miles inland from its gulf. Avigliano is 50 miles east of Salerno and eight miles northwest of Potenza. Acerno is 18 miles east and slightly north of Salerno.

Thus the continuous Allied line from Salerno on the Mediterranean to above Paris on the Adriatic had been pushed forward eight miles northwest of Potenza, 14 miles north of Sala Consilina and 10 miles north of Mottola, which is north of Taranto.

Small gains were made north of Salerno in the last mountain barrier to the plains of Naples. There the Germans resisted stubbornly while they destroyed everything of value in the once-beautiful city of 925,000. A smoke blanket hung over Naples and approaching Allied troops could hear frequent explosions.

Aerial photographs showed the destruction of the Naples waterfront to be worse than were the German demolitions at Tripoli in North Africa.

"At least 30 Italian ships have been scuttled and sunk and practically every usable berth along the docks has been blocked" by Nazi demolitions, an official announcement said.

"Fires have been burning along the docks for several days, apparently the result of demolitions. Charges have been seen to explode among the docks."

Somber Pictures.
The somber pictures also showed that the industrial area north of the docks had been wrecked. Railroad yards were demolished.

"The extent to which this is going on indicates the enemy is determined to make the big port—one of the largest and best of peacetime harbors—completely useless to Allied troops when they occupy it," the Allied air forces stated.

The port of Naples is the principal prize. Its possession will greatly facilitate Allied logistics. A great harbor close to the forward battlelines would simplify the problems of supply and reinforcement, allowing the largest transports and cargo carriers to unload at docks rather than have to ferry their loads to beaches in lighters and landing craft.

Experience in North Africa showed that the most thorough demolitions failed to permanently knock out harbors. The thoroughness of the wrecking at Naples, however, quite likely will delay bringing the harbor into effective use.

General Eisenhower's communique said "both the Fifth and Eighth Armies continued to advance," and added:

"The enemy continues to cling hard to his positions in the western sector while tending to withdraw his left flank."

No heavy fighting was reported in Italy, where both sides were regrouping and building up strength for the next critical battle, expected shortly.

The Germans used a small number of tanks to cover their retreat up the Italian boot, but the Allies had little trouble dealing with them. Considerable minefields were encountered in some sectors, but they did not approach the profusion of mines strewn in Tunisia or Sicily.

The increasingly violent air war has been heralded by the transfer of bomber groups from England. Liberators hacked at German air strength by bombing the airbases of Maritzia, Rhodes and Eleusis near Athens without oppo-

Plane Output Given Priority, Bevin Declares

LONDON, Sept. 23.—(P)—Urging every provision be made for "the titanic struggle facing us in 1944," Labor Minister Ernest Bevin said today that the British cabinet had given priority to aircraft construction and urged women up to 50 to go to work in plane factories at once.

In a review of Great Britain's manpower situation before the house of commons he reported that:

Mobilization has reached a stage not excelled in any other country. Nearly 23,000,000 out of 33,000,000 persons between 14 and 64 who are available for work are in the armed services, civil defense or part-time employment.

Seven million women are doing part-time work. More than a million women are doing voluntary, non-paid jobs.

Ninety-one per cent of Britain's unmarried women between 18 and 40 are employed. Over 80 per cent of childless married women in that group also are working. More than a million men and women over 65 are in the war effort.

Two and a quarter million more people are employed in munitions making than at the end of the last war.

English Health Reports Show 'Danger Spots'

LONDON, Sept. 23.—(P)—The health of the average Briton is holding up remarkably well despite the rigors of four years of war. Minister of Health Ernest Brown said today, but he warned that increases last year in venereal diseases and tuberculosis constituted "danger spots."

"There can be no doubt that the nation's prodigious war effort has imposed a severe strain upon the health of the people—a strain which they have withstood in general with dogged determination and astonishing success," Brown said in his annual report.

Surveys, he added, showed no general deterioration in the nutritional state of the people but suggested a considerable increase in short-term sickness.

Although venereal diseases, which have been increasing steadily throughout the war period, showed an unspecified increase last year, the total incidence of infectious disease was less by nearly 30 per cent, Brown said. Diphtheria figures were the lowest in 19 years, but scarlet fever showed a substantial increase.

Brown's report also showed that the illegitimacy rate in Britain rose from 42 per thousand in 1939 to 54 per thousand in 1942.

Wavell Urges Britons To Take Pride in India

WINCHESTER, Eng., Sept. 23.—(P)—Field Marshal Viscount Wavell, viceroy-designate of India, told a Winchester audience today that Great Britain has little to be ashamed of and much of which to be proud in her dealings with India.

"The good we have done," he said, "in giving India a peace as never before, in encouraging a national spirit, in leading the country a long way down the road toward her great destiny, has been one of the finest pieces of government and administration ever accomplished in this world of difficulties and dangers."

"For the moment the outlook seems dark and the right road hard to find; but if we can lead India a little further, through a few more troubles, we shall have set the seal on a great task and can let her direct her own footsteps to the great and prosperous future for which we hope."

New York-to-Moscow Phone Service Opens

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—(P) Direct telephone service has been established between New York and Moscow.

This became known today with the filing of a tariff with the Federal Communications Commission by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

The cost of a call between New York and Moscow is on the basis of $21 for three minutes.

The tariff filed with the FCC gave no details as to eligibility of persons for using the new service. This service, like all other overseas communications, will be subject to censorship.

Ambassador to Turkey Back for Conferences

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—(P) Laurence A. Steinhardt, American Ambassador to Turkey, returned to Washington today for a series of conferences viewed as especially significant in view of military and political developments in the Balkan and Eastern Mediterranean areas.

He reported to Secretary of State Hull and is expected to confer with other high officials. His assignment in Turkey has been of particular importance in view of that neutral country's position between Soviet Russia, the German-dominated Balkans and the Allied positions in the Near East.

$90,000,000,000 Rise Expected in U. S. Debt

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—(P) Congress may be asked soon to boost the national debt limit to $300,000,000,000.

Chairman Cannon, Democrat, Missouri, of the house appropriations committee, told reporters today the present rate of government spending is approaching the present statutory debt limit of $210,000,000,000.

He estimated the present spending rate at between $7,000,000,000 and $8,000,000,000 monthly. A $300,000,000,000 limit, Cannon said, may be sufficient "if the war doesn't last too long."

Flyer Killed as Planes Collide

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Sept. 23.—(P)—One Army flyer was killed and another parachuted to safety today when two pursuit planes from the Pinellas Army Air Base collided over the airport during a routine training flight.

Name of the dead pilot was withheld pending notification of the next of kin.

At the same time the public relations department at the airport released the name of another pilot killed Tuesday when his pursuit ship crashed near Indian Rocks. He was Second Lieutenant Glyn A. Reeves, 24, of Mt. Vernon, Texas. The body, accompanied by his widow and a military escort, is being returned to Mt. Vernon.

Floor on Profits Proposed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—(P) The house ways and means committee concluded today public hearings on the renegotiation act. The last witness, Edward G. Budd, of Philadelphia, president of the Budd Companies, recommended amendment of the act to fix a profit percentage floor below which renegotiators could not go.

Ed Phillips, Richmond, Va., production equipment company executive, protested: "I don't like to have five-men sit on a board who know nothing about my business and tell me to give them back $170,000," he said.

New Miner Pay Plan Is Laid Before WLB

Admiral King Cites Progress In Pacific War

OMAHA, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Allied forces in the Pacific "are not fighting a holding operation against the Japanese," but are performing offensive operations that will increase as more means are allocated to the Pacific theater, Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the United States fleet and chief of naval operations, declared today.

At a general press interview here following his speech before the national American Legion convention, Admiral King asserted that Allied forces in the Pacific will "throw more and more money wrenches into the machinery of the enemy as we get more and more money wrenches to throw."

Learns of Discharge

Year and a Half Late
LONDON, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Private Ray Adler, of Ponchatoula, La., has been doing guard duty in front of U. S. Army headquarters here for nearly a year, but he isn't sure whether he's in the Army or not.

He learned today for the first time of a medical discharge, filed for him a year and a half ago before he even shipped overseas, when his mother wrote that his allotment home had been stopped.

Suffering a fractured pelvis in an automobile accident in January, 1942, Adler was given a discharge a month later.

This second joint submission of the two parties provides payment for travel time but sacrifices the miners' seven-hour day. It calls for an 8 1/2 hour day calculated from the time a miner enters the mine until he returns above ground.

Persons close to the War Labor Board believe the agreement has a good chance of approval. The Office of Price Administration and the director of economic stabilization also would have to approve if the agreement is to become effective since it requires an increase in the price of coal.

End of Strife Seen.
It is the consensus of informed persons in the industry and government that if these hurdles are cleared the contract will be applied generally throughout the industry and the wage problem which led to six months of strife and dispute will have been solved.

The present basic wage in soft coal mines is $7 for a seven-hour day, but the day is figured on the basis of time spent at the coal seam with no account taken of time spent in underground travel. Time and one-half rates begin after the 35th hour. The miners pay, therefore, is $35 for a five-day week of 35 hours. For the sixth day he receives $10.50, or a total of $45.50 for the week.

Museum Caps 80-Year Tour Of Cobb Bible

The Constitution's Marietta News Bureau
MARIETTA, Ga., Sept. 23.—A Bible, taken from a Marietta library by a Union soldier marching through Georgia with Sherman, in 1864, traveled to Boise, Idaho, returned in 1914 to Marietta and last week ended its long journey in the National Park museum at the Kennesaw Mountain National Battlefield Park.

Written on the flyleaf of the book by A. C. Torrence, the Union soldier who found the Bible, is a message stating his pleasure at returning the property to "the place where it belongs" and expressing the wish that the book and the nation "will ever rest in peace."

Arrangements for the placing of the Bible in the National Park museum were made by Mrs. Mark Temple, chairman of the Clarke Library board; Miss Weldon Sibley, librarian; and Leo Aikman, custodian of the national park.

POSTWAR ROAD PLANNERS—What should be done in the matter of roads in Georgia after the war was discussed yesterday by Ryburn Clay, left, director of the Georgia Highway Department, and P. D. McLean, information chief of the National Highway Users Conference.

$131,798,211 Georgia Banks Gain for Year

A gain of $131,798,211—or more than 25 per cent—was shown in Georgia banks resources for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1943, State Bank Superintendent J. C. Beasley reports. Deposits and surpluses also soared higher during this year of war prosperity, he said.

Resources last June 30 in the 245 state banks totaled $414,788,052, he said. This increase indicates a greater general prosperity in Georgia, Beasley asserted.

Beasley also pointed to an $817,517 reduction in land owned by banks. State banks cannot acquire land except by foreclosure of mortgages. Some farmers who lost their land during the depression have now bought it back, thereby helping reduce land holdings of the banks, the superintendent added.

Antiaircraft guns on American warships put up a heavy fire. Allied fighters engaged in a 25-minute battle. Headquarters said not a ship or passenger was damaged or injured.

The Tokyo radio said last night that two Allied cruisers were set on fire and other ships damaged. Allied medium units and attack planes, closely supporting the landings, dropped 21 tons of bombs and fired 48,000 rounds of ammunition.

Finschhafen is threatened ultimately by a pincer, there being other Australians who landed between it and Lae September 4 to open the operations which resulted in capture of the latter air base.

Highway Users Discuss Plans For After War

Highway plans for Georgia after the war were discussed yesterday by the Georgia Highway Users' Conference.

The agreement of the luncheon gathering in the Ansley hotel was that, although the war has prevented further building of highways, the states should plan for highway networks after the war.

Ryburn Clay, executive director of the Georgia Highway Board, discussed with a small attendance the impossibility of diverting all state gas funds into the desired highways.

P. D. McLean, chief of information of the National Highway Users' Conference, discussed the growth of automobile and motor bus traffic since the last war and urged the development of roads as soon as federal government regulations let down and the states can begin to build.

Resolutions urging that all gasoline tax monies go towards highway construction and highway maintenance work were passed.

Benito's 'New Fascist' Regime Seems Hollow Nazi Mouthpiece

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK, Chief of the Former Rome Bureau of the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Benito Mussolini's "new Fascist government," announced today from Berlin, looks from this distance like a rather hollow propaganda structure erected by the Germans.

Legally, one authority here said, all the members of this new Fascist creation, from Mussolini down, are traitors, liable to execution by the Italians should they be captured by the Allies. They have violated the armistice signed by the legitimately constituted Badoglio government.

Marshall Rodolfo Graziani's appointment as minister of defense was surprising. Presumably he was chosen because he has been a high Army officer, who once collaborated wholeheartedly in Mussolini's military adventures. He was supposedly in disgrace, however, after his implied criticism of the Mussolini regime in his 1941 report explaining how the British defeated the Italians in Cyrenaica.

At that low ebb in Italian fortunes which brought the Germans into North Africa, Graziani resigned. It was rumored then that he was ill, suffering from a cancer of the throat, but some thought the illness was a diplomatic one.

Considered a good general militarily, Graziani has an unsavory reputation for ruthlessness. Natives in Libya called him the "white devil" and attributed to him the practice of dropping rebel chiefs from airplanes in the pacification of that territory.

Interesting and perhaps significant was the abandonment by Mussolini of the defense and interior portfolios, which he always held before his fall from power last July 25, and his assumption of the premiership and foreign affairs.

Guido Buffarini-Guidi, a retund Fascist politician, long was Mussolini's undersecretary of interior, with control over the police system.

With German threats to purge the territory under Nazi control of anti-Fascists, the designation of General Antonio Tringali-Casanova as minister of justice has sinister implications. A general in the Fascist militia, he used to preside over the special tribunal which arbitrarily tried persons suspected of "crimes against the state," such as espionage, anti-Fascist underground activities, sabotage and plots against Mussolini.

Tringali-Casanova and Buffarini-Guidi were members of the Fascist grand council who did not vote against Mussolini in the stormy meeting that led to the former Duce's ouster.

Shortly after Badoglio supplanted Mussolini in the government, reports reached Washington that the Germans were planning to restore Mussolini. It is assumed that the newly announced "government" already had been drawn up when the armistice was announced, and that the Germans went ahead with it after "rescuing" Mussolini from his captors.

Washington diplomats now are watching for some identification of Mussolini's capital, whether it is to be in Rome, from which the German announcement was dated, or whether the Fascist group will establish itself in some northern city.

Germany Will Shelter Benito's 'Republicans'
NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—(AP)—The seat of the "new Republican Fascist government" set up under the premiership of Benito Mussolini is to be established temporarily in southern Germany because of war hazards in Italian territory.

raids would interfere with its normal functioning."
A new cabinet was announced earlier in Berlin transmissions. Mussolini is to be his own foreign minister, it was said. Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, one of the Italian army's highest ranking officers, was identified as minister of defense.

20,000 Freed Prisoners Fight Germans in Italy

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—(INS)—Twenty thousand American and British prisoners of war, liberated by the British today to be fighting the Germans in Italy.

The broadcast was recorded by CBS monitors, who also heard London reporting that the Italians are still battling the Nazis in the city of Naples.

"Citizens who take part in the street fighting are using their fists and stones," the broadcast stated. "The Germans are executing Italians in groups of 50 and also whipping them in the streets for insignificant reasons."

George Bernard Shaw Says:

More, Not Fewer, Restrictions Would Be Imposed Were I Boss

(Copyright, 1943. All Rights Reserved.)
NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—(NANA)—The passing years do not appear to be blunting the wit nor dulling the cutting edge of George Bernard Shaw's observations on current events. He demonstrated that in an exclusive interview obtained by Judy Barden of the New York Sun's London bureau, a report of which reached here today.

The 87-year-old philosopher-writer-critic begins by suggesting that if he were running things there would be more, rather than fewer, restrictions on individuals and concludes by suggesting that the present crop of workers and the parasites who live off them might be better off dead than existing as they do today.

Miss Barden, like many other journalists in London, has been trying to find out how the cynical philosopher feels about the post-war world. She sought an interview, knowing that Mr. Shaw is reputed never to see any interviewer, but to her gratification he did allow her to send a list of questions to which he wrote replies.

Replies Tantalizing.
Often, Miss Barden admits, the replies were tantalizing in that they suggest more questions which an interview with the postman as intermediary do not permit. But they are typically Shawian.

Heading her questions "After the War Is Won," Miss Barden asked, "What restrictions would you remove first, and why?" This drew a tart, "Why do you think I would remove any? I should probably impose dozens more."

Asked the form of government he would like, Mr. Shaw replied: "Government by people of carefully tested capacity for the job. Anything would be better than our present lot of Anybodies chosen by Everybody. We need panel politicians as well as panel doctors. Read Aldous Huxley on the subject."

On the question of maintaining armies of occupation in the Axis satellite countries, the sage fired back, "Are there to be any satellite countries?" Then he added: "I thought we were contemplating commonwealths and federations. If we mean only to knock the enemy down and then pass the rest of our lives sitting on his head we shall have plenty of armies of occupation spending our money abroad."

Another question to be parried with a question was that in which Miss Barden asked whether Mr. Shaw would bring about equality of sexes in all walks of life. He wrote, "What do you mean by equality?" He then continued: "Women will always be more important than men because without many women there could be no men, though a handful of men would be enough to keep a thousand women in full reproduction. The equality to aim at is a sufficient equality of income to make all our men and women intermarriageable."

How About America?
Asked whether he would reconsider his decision about going to America and, if not, why he did not wish to go, the playwright passed up a chance to take a fling at Hollywood by simply observing: "I haven't made any decision about it. I will go tomorrow if necessary. But I never want to go anywhere, because I find plenty to do where I am."

On the subject of returning to pre-war newspapers from the present editions, abbreviated by wartime restrictions on newsprint, Mr. Shaw wrote: "I haven't noticed any serious differences. There is no use talking to an octogenarian about new styles and old styles. He was familiar with all the latest novelties before you were born."

Working Man's Status.

It is almost possible to envision the sardonic twinkle in Mr. Shaw's eye as he wrote the answer to the concluding question: "What do you consider will constitute happy living for the working man?"

The reply was: "It is not what I consider but what he considers that you have to ascertain. I do not consider either the working man as he exists today or his parasites, the ladies and gentlemen, desirable species. They will be better dead. For their successors, I cannot answer."

Although he had not been willing to receive Miss Barden in person, Mr. Shaw evidences an appreciation of the value reporters put on special interviews by inscribing his answers, "Exclusive to Miss Judy Barden. G. Bernard Shaw, 31st August, 1943."

Alexander Thanks Spaatz For Salerno Air Cover

'Old Offender,' Out on Parole, Is Back in Tower

R. H. Roberts, 40, who was arrested Wednesday in a Cooper street rooming house by Georgia State Patrol Investigators Ed L. Norton and J. A. Addy, is being held without bond in Fulton Tower on charges of larceny of an automobile, parole violation, and passing worthless checks, according to State Patrol records.

Arrested with him was Sue Wynn, 30, who is being held on a statutory charge.

"Roberts is an old offender," Patrol Captain William E. Spence said yesterday, "and claims to have escaped from Georgia chain gangs 36 times. We have been after him for a month."

Posing as an air line employee, Roberts has cashed bogus checks in several Georgia cities, Spence said.

Spence stated that Roberts was a first-class mechanic and moved from town to town getting jobs in auto repair shops.

"He was out on parole at the time," Spence added, "and has 10 or 12 years hanging over him."

First notice that authorities had of Roberts' passing bad checks, according to Spence, was when W. B. Folkes, of Montezuma, Ga., reported that Roberts had cashed a bad check at a filling station operated by his mother several weeks ago.

"Roberts rushed in saying that an airplane had crashed and he had hurried out of the Atlanta office so fast he had forgotten to bring any money," Folkes said.

"He said he had to have funds to take care of injured passengers."

No "Inner Fortress"

That the loudly boasted "inner fortress" of Nazi Europe exists only in Goebbels' home-front propaganda is an evident fact, becoming more and more evident as the offensive operations of the Allies intensify. It is doubtful if Hitler and his generals even have land defenses of the strength they have proclaimed and certainly there is no adequate defense for Germany from the air.

It is believed by many competent observers of war developments in Europe that Germany is now getting ready to withdraw within a radius which she believes is best adapted for a last-stand defense. This would probably be bounded, in rough terms, by the Baltic in the north, the Dnieper river in the east, the Po and the Danube rivers in the south and a line through the eastern borders of France, Belgium and the Netherlands on the west.

If such a development is taking place, there are two factors of primary importance. One is that the Russians are already close to the Dnieper in the east and threaten to break that line, and the other is that any such withdrawal would be irrefutable confession by Germany that she recognizes her defeat and is preparing to start bargaining for the best possible peace terms.

If the Nazis are planning to sue for peace, it is of utmost importance that full rapprochement between Russia and the Anglo-American allies be accomplished at once, if it has not already been achieved. For there are two great dangers to face the Allies when Germany begins a peace offensive. One is that a fake "revolution" in Germany may deceive us into believing the German people have purged themselves of Nazi and militaristic taint. The other is that either we or the Russians might accept terms unacceptable to the other, thus leaving Germany free to continue fighting either east or west, but not on both fronts.

Whatever actual war developments are, however, Germany is on the horns of a classic dilemma. She cannot strengthen one front without weakening another. She cannot stop the air attack which is steadily eliminating her war industries and resources.

Whatever she does in war strategy from now on can only serve to aid the Allied cause, and, therefore, can only be wrong from her own standpoint.

The warning is out that a Nazi peace feeler will be along in November. However, there is not much doubt about the Allies' reaction. Der Fuehrer will be able to skate on it.

Making Room

The transfer of United States Liberator bomber squadrons from Britain to North Africa carries more than one interesting implication.

It is obvious the move will make possible greater use of the bombers in attack against German cities and war industries. Weather conditions over the Mediterranean and Italy are better during the winter months than they are over England and Western Europe. Thus the bombers will have more days on which they can assault the enemy, instead of being grounded by adverse weather, from their new bases.

Another important point, however, is that the withdrawal of large numbers of American planes from Britain will probably not lessen the power of air attack from that base of operations. For the rate of bomber production now achieved, both here and in Britain, is such that the squadrons moved to Africa can be quickly, if not immediately, replaced in Britain by new ships and new crews to operate them.

As a matter of fact it is likely that the capacity in Britain for air fields and headquarters for the air forces has about reached the limit of saturation. Britain, after all, is a comparatively small island, by area. There is a limit to the accommodation available there for landing fields and air bases.

The shift of large numbers of Liberators to Africa should result in an acceleration of the already overwhelming air attack in that arena—including the vulnerable factories of southern and eastern Germany—with no lessening of the ferocity of air attack from Britain.

Japan Wakes Up

That they are engaged in a war in which they will be the eventual losers has finally penetrated the egotistical brains of Tojo and the war lords of Japan. It is a fair surmise that Hirohito, the Son of Heaven, is having some anxious periods in which he fears that sooner or later he may be the target for some missiles from above the clouds that cannot be mistaken as messages from heaven.

The ease with which the Japanese surprised United States forces at Wake Island, the negligible defense they encountered in taking over the South Pacific area after the heroic defense of the Philippines, boosted their ego to the point they thought defeating the United States and Great Britain and gaining control of the entire Pacific area, including China and India, would be a comparatively easy matter. Now they realize they "bit off more than they can chew." One Axis partner has crumpled before the might of the American and British, and the other is reeling under the onrushing Russian juggernaut.

Closer home they have suffered stinging defeats in the Aleutians, the Solomon Islands and New Guinea, coupled with serious depletion of Japanese air power and shipping. Already suffering considerably by the attrition of several years of war with China, and forced to keep a large force on the Russian boundary in Manchukuo, Tojo has issued a series of orders calling for greater sacrifices by the people of Japan and the areas under Japanese control in China, Manchukuo and Formosa. These orders include total mobilization of the entire civilian population, abolishment of age limits, making all persons liable for national service, including women; strengthening government control over all industry and strict self-sufficiency of all foodstuffs.

Realizing that Tokyo will be one of the first targets for United States bombers, preparation is being made for government evacuation of that city, and plans are contemplated for hurried evacuation from key manufacturing cities. "The Japanese nation in all its classes and professions must fully understand the seriousness of the present conflict, both internal and external, and must be inspired by an unbending will to victory," Tojo informed the nation in his broadcast.

Tojo is singing a different song than that of Yamamoto, who said he would sign the peace with the United States in Washington. Tojo's note of defeat and appeal for loyalty and all-out support of the people is reminiscent of the change in the propaganda blasts of Joe Goebbels, who a short time back was telling the German nation how they would triumph over the Allies, but is now begging the Germans not to crack.

Deserved Condemnation

There will be few who do not approve the action of the American Legion, in convention at Omaha, in adopting a resolution severely censuring Representative Hamilton Fish, New York Republican, because he permitted anti-American individuals and groups the use of his congressional franking privilege to scatter enemy propaganda over this country.

Fish's secretary was found guilty of abetting such men as George Sylvester Viereck and such organizations as the "American First Committee," in mailing anti-American propaganda over his employer's frank. Fish himself has suffered no punishment, though the public at large is in doubt as to whether he owes this exonerated to lack of guilty evidence or to congressional immunity.

Fish has been one of the outstanding isolationists in congress. He opposed all the defense legislation prior to Pearl Harbor. Public opinion has condemned him on many counts.

Thus there will be widespread gratification that the Legion found it possible to publicly express the condemnation a large majority of Americans feel.

Georgia Editors Say:

A BUM IS ALWAYS A BUM.

(From The Brunswick News.)

Proposal of Congressman J. Buell Snyder, Pennsylvania Democrat, to draft "at least 500,000 hoboes, bums, loafers, wifebeaters, drunks, gambling joint patrons and dissipated of all kinds" may appeal to the impatience most of us feel toward such useless tag-ends of the population.

But a moment's reflection shows the error of such a plan. Mr. Snyder himself admits that many of these men would be physically unfit for either active or non-combatant military services, but he believes they should nevertheless be placed in training camps and thinks that in three months 75 per cent of them would be fit for some kind of war work.

Without attempting to dispose of that theory, which would not be difficult, one thing is obvious. The United States Army has a huge job of training the fit men it receives and should not be burdened with several hundred thousand chronic misfits. Marrying a man to reform him has long been shown to be a paralytic business. Drafting one with that idea in the same category.

A bum is always a bum.

You can't make good coffee from dregs in the bottom of the pot.

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

PUZZLING ATTITUDE WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Until the full facts are known it is difficult to pass judgment on the rather extraordinary statement just issued by our South Pacific commander, General Douglas MacArthur, who seems to think that he has been relegated to a secondary role in the Asiatic theater by the appointment of Lord Louis Mountbatten as leader of Allied forces in India.

The public will have to be given more information before the situation can be appraised intelligently. Judging by surface indications, however, General MacArthur has spoken somewhat out of turn. It is highly unusual, to say the least, for a military commander to express himself so freely, and with the implied criticism his statement contains, on matters of over-all strategy as determined by the high command.

In military circles there is a tendency to remind General MacArthur that a good soldier takes his orders without questioning and that this applies all the way up the ranks from the private to the commanding officer.

The effect of the South Pacific commander's statement is to question the strategy agreed upon at the Roosevelt-Churchill Quebec conference for pressing the attack against Japan. We are led to assume that General MacArthur proposed one course of action, while the high command accepted another, revolving around the launching of a great offensive from India for the reopening of the Burma Road.

QUESTION FOR EXPERTS General MacArthur evidently has his mind set on more direct blows against Japan. He wants to reduce to a minimum the island-hopping campaign we have heretofore conducted in the Pacific and make bold thrusts against the Japanese mainland. Most of all, he probably looks forward to the day when he will be able to fulfill his promise to chase the Japs out of the Philippines.

The layman is not qualified to discuss the merits of the two strategic plans. That is a question for the experts. But the question having been decided by the experts, we may assume it has, it does not seem to come with very good grace for General MacArthur to raise a dissenting voice in public. He might protest the decision in private and give added reasons why his proposed line of action should be accepted, but to bring the issue into the open smacks of political implications. It is contrary to all sound military behavior.

HINTS AT POLITICS All of this forces the reminder that the South Pacific commander has been prominently projected as a Republican presidential candidate. In an effort to embarrass the Roosevelt administration, his name was first trotted out by the isolationist press of the country, led by the Chicago Tribune, shortly after the general's magnificent defense of Bataan.

Since then the movement has taken firmer hold. Recent nationwide polls have shown him to be running third for the nomination, ranking next in popular choice to Governor Dewey, of New York, and Wendell L. Willkie, who were first and second, respectively. Several prominent leaders in the party, including Senator Arthur Vandenberg, of Michigan, himself a leading candidate for the nomination three years ago, have come out openly for MacArthur.

Reading the general's statement in the light of these circumstances, it is not altogether possible to escape the suspicion that he may have issued his critical blast with an eye to furthering his presidential campaign.

MAY BE OTHERS If that is true, the present outburst may be the forerunner of still others to come. In an effort to embarrass the Roosevelt administration, his name was first trotted out by the isolationist press of the country, led by the Chicago Tribune, shortly after the general's magnificent defense of Bataan.

Certainly if the general has presidential ambitions, this would be the way to give them expression. Democrats concede that he would make a formidable candidate against the President. Because of his age, General MacArthur is subject to retirement early next year. Up to now, however, there has been little thought of the War Department not keeping him on by waiving the age limit, which is permissible.

But if MacArthur has been stung by the presidential bee nothing would suit his purpose better than to force an issue between himself and the high command which would result in him being relieved of his post. There are the earmarks of such an issue in his recent statement.

PRIMA DONNAISH? Still another way of looking at the situation is that MacArthur has no political ambitions, but is merely resentful of the implications of the Mountbatten appointment. Although regarded as one of our ablest military commanders, the general long has been rated as something of a prima donna.

If he got the idea that his own leadership was being superseded by another military man in the Pacific area, although far removed from his immediate sphere of action, he probably would be resentful. His recent statement indicates at least that, though it has not been made clear yet just how Lord Mountbatten's assignment conflicts with General MacArthur's authority in the Pacific.

SILHOUETTES

Importance Of Mottos.

In all human undertakings it is important, first to determine the objective sought and, second, to create some symbol which will keep that objective constantly in view.

To do this there is nothing more valuable than the adoption of the proper slogan, or motto. The power of the slogan has long been recognized by advertising men, but even before advertising it was used in every endeavor.

It is the key to understanding and the motivating spirit to achievement.

Sometimes a cause fails through adoption of the wrong slogan. Sometimes an advertising campaign fails because the slogan chosen, by innuendo or ironic repetition, becomes an irritation instead of a compulsion.

With those preliminary remarks, let us get down to application of the motto principle to the real subject of this morning's column, which is prison reform in Georgia. That is the liveliest issue today in this state, and next to activities dealing directly with the war, the most important problem we, led by Governor Arnall, have to solve.

So, let us consider adoption of a suitable motto for whoever is chosen to lead Georgia's prisons out of the swamp of brutality into the sunshine of decent humanity.

First Find Root of Trouble.

In undertaking any reform it is essential that first of all we uncover and understand the basic falsity which has created the unhappy conditions we seek to end.

It has always seemed to me that the root cause of Georgia prison shame is the wrong attitude toward a majority of the men who have been thrust into the institutions, camps, etc. Despite protestations to the contrary it is true that, save for a pitifully few exceptions, the wardens and guards who control the destinies of the men and women who must pay society for violating the laws, are totally unfit for their task because of a wrong mental approach.

Most of these men know nothing of the regeneration purpose of imprisonment. Their minds are capable only of grasping the medieval thought of punishment. They consider their duty done if they can keep their charges cowed, thoroughly subdued. And their methods of achieving this end are brutality and rigid, physical punishment of the poor bodies in their charge.

Of course this is all wrong. You can't find the spark of goodness in a man who is treated as a brute, a brute to be broken and controlled by whip or spur.

Must Be New Spirit.

Governor Arnall is seeking the right man for the place as director of corrections, a new position which will carry with it full responsibility for the direction of Georgia's penal system.

It seems to me that such a man, whoever is chosen, must bring with him a new and truly Christian approach to the relationship between prisoners and those who control them and direct their prison lives. He must be a man with such high ideals and purposes must be reflected in the mind and heart of every warden, every guard in the state.

It is a huge undertaking, to change the mental attitude of an entire state-wide group. Many, of necessity, must be replaced by others. These are the ones whose temperaments are so impregnated with the old idea they can never change. Some, it is believed, at heart are good men and, given the chance, will respond to the new order of prison management in satisfactory manner.

Now we come to the choice of a motto, by which the new head of the state prison system may put into words the idea that he must inculcate upon all his subordinates if the reform we seek is to come to pass.

I have two such mottoes to suggest. The first, with necessary interpolations to fit the circumstance, is from the Bible. You are all familiar with it:

"All things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you (if you were a convict) do ye even so to them" (when you are a warden).

A man named John Bradford once watched a convict pass by. And Bradford said:

"There, but for the grace of God, goes John Bradford." That is my alternate, or second suggestion, of a motto for those in charge of Georgia's prison system.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Loyalty Omitted NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—One great appeal is conspicuously lacking in the preachment to the young people of the United States concerning the brave new world of the future, of which they will be the masters. There are freedoms up to seven now, compensated, of course, by sacrifices of ordinary human individual liberties which have been instinctive in the United States; but there has been no mention of loyalty. This is a sensitive topic in a nation whose marriages to the extent of one in six end in the divorce court, for loyalty begins in the home and is the cement in the family unit which is the basic unit of civilization.

That loyalty is to be observed every day on the railroads and around the military camps in which American youth is training to fight. Young wives go rattling over the railroads, hauled there under hardship conditions, from New England to San Diego, from Minnesota to Florida, to be close to their young husbands until the last possible moment. Some have babies in their arms and some are obviously expecting. Many carry their own hand baggage for lack of money to pay the porters; they sit up day and night in hot, ill-ventilated trains and when they arrive often there is no decent housing for them. Many of them take jobs in war factories or in restaurants or hotels who might remain in reasonable comfort and security at home, in order to have a few more hours together and some of the most poignant little stories from overseas have been glimpses of the longing of young soldiers to see their wives, and babies, born since they went away.

Lack of Example

Youth has not had an inspiring public example of this first loyalty in recent years, and it has received nowhere in the propaganda of that which might be called the political youth movement the emphasis that has been given to political strategy, economic problems and the freedoms. Conspicuous families, including leading personalities of middle-age and beyond, have been disrupted in our own country and, in Britain, a scandalous round-robin of wife trading culminated in a historical political smash in which those who upheld an old-fashioned concept of family loyalty were abused from the "liberal" side for repudiating an example which would have reduced the family to the status of the animals in the barnyard. They were called " Tories," "Reactionaries" and "Fascists."

Indeed, not even loyalty to the United States is now placed first in the program for the future which is presented to youth in the war. Instead it is urged that this youth fight for a new world and a new order of objectives called freedom, the achievement of which would abrogate much of the fundamental human freedom or liberty on which American life is based. Men who have placed the United States, first, and alone, have been branded as friends of the enemy as though a narrow and exclusive devotion to their own country to the neglect of Islam or Ethiopia were somehow un-American.

Family Loyalty

Strangely, family loyalty, the integrity of the home in which young Americans receive their teaching, example and inspiration, has been avoided as a topic too delicate or embarrassing for discussion. To stand by and rescue a wounded buddy in action is a great thing, but on the other hand, to call off a marriage and deprive children of the leadership and companionship of one parent and to set them an intimate and deeply impressive example of selfishness is not even questionable conduct. In the more radical areas of politics, apostasy to a political belief or objective, or to the personality of a leader will be condemned as an unforgivable, personal crime by some persons who nevertheless see nothing worse in the repudiation of a marriage for casual, selfish reasons than the violation of a treaty of convenience by a European state.

This war has greatly stimulated marriage among American youth and it is possible that the ratio of divorces established by civilians will be maintained by them. Certainly the political youth movement has not regarded family integrity as any of its business. But, fortunately, only a small proportion of this youth has ever had any contact with organized youth under planned political leadership and the majority, whether poor, middle class or rich, carry over into marriage the inspiration not of worldly, prominent personalities but that of their own humdrum, loyal parents in their little American homes.

OPPRESSION FREE.

And I returned and saw all the oppressions that are done under the sun.—Ecclesiastes 4:1.

Oppressions are many and varied. The fact that they have always been, does not imply that they must always be. The sage of Ecclesiastes was deeply moved by those that he saw, particularly by political oppression. In our land of democratic processes we may incline to the view that we are free of such corruption. But if we look about us with minds and hearts sensitive to human need, we shall know better. When the President of the United States is forced to declare that a third of the nation is inadequately housed, clothed, nourished—there is no escaping, our responsibility to labor intelligently and incessantly for the removal of all manner of oppression.

Our Father, with eyes to see, forbid that we should be blind to injustices, the sufferings, the yearnings of those round about us. Guide us, we pray, in purifying motives and in lightening loads after the manner of Christ.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL

MISSION TO MOSCOW Russia's army is moving closer and closer to the Polish borders of 1940. It is entirely possible the Germans will fall back to a position along those borders, abandoning the Russian territory so bloodily and sacrificially won in the first two summer campaigns against the Russian.

It can hardly have been the German plan in Italy to do more than to fight a delaying game, hoping to exact enough death from American troops so that American public opinion would be swung toward a negotiated peace.

The German plan can never have been anything else but a slow retreat back to the Po. They may even move back beyond the past. I cannot agree with the military experts and commentators that the great German stand will be made at the Po. The Brenner Pass is vulnerable enough to air power, from bases which will be obtained in the drive to the Po, to prevent the Germans getting supplies and ammunition for a long-unsustained stand at the Po. Wrecked railroads, obstructed roads, and bombings of all communications would make the Po untenable after a comparatively short stand.

With Russian prestige high in Europe, and sure to be higher once the German retreat becomes apparent to all the conquered peoples, our coming mission to Moscow assumes a greater importance than ever before.

It has been said that England and the United States will meet with the Russians. The meeting place has not been announced, and likely will not be announced until the meeting begins. Meanwhile, the identity of our representative is important.

NOT MR. HULL The best Washington reports have it that the secretary of state, Mr. Cordell Hull, will not attend because of his ill health and also because of the unfortunate public airing of the resignation of Sumner Welles. It is a pity that Mr. Hull cannot go and it also is to be regretted that Mr. Welles cannot be the one to represent us.

Word now is that W. Averell Harriman, American lend-lease administrator in London, may be our choice.

That would be the happiest choice that could be made. Mr. Harriman is an American business man. I am sure, but I think he is of the type known as the "hard-headed" type of businessman. Sometimes this type, unfortunately, is all too hard-headed. Mr. Harriman does not fit in this last category.

He is a Yale graduate; was, and may still be, an expert polo player, and is, I believe, chairman of the board of the Union Pacific, director in a large New York bank or so, and otherwise well connected.

Mr. Harriman, however, is not afraid. That is why he is a happy choice. Mr. Harriman knows perfectly well that the heart and the spirit of this country are sound. He knows, too, that this administration is not trying to destroy the profit system or the system of private enterprise. He does not see the specter of Communism behind doors or under his bed. He knows a great deal about international affairs and he is not provincial.

Mr. Harriman, furthermore, is an industrialist who can think in terms of international trade. He has definite ideas about world trade and the part of this country in the years after the war.

He is not at all influenced by the old-line diplomats and he favors trade policies rather than power policies. He is a good, sound man.

But, as I said before, the best thing about him is that he isn't afraid. He isn't afraid of Russia, or England, and, most important, he isn't afraid of the American people. It is perfectly amazing how many persons are becoming afraid of the American people.

So, I hope it will be Mr. Harriman who goes to Russia.

THE BIG STAKES

There is a great deal to clear up. There are questions of provincialism, of our debt to China, and so on.

There is the greater problem of some sort of beginnings at agreement on what the three big powers will do in the future structure of the world. All the others are part of it, of course, but even they could be settled without attacking the real problem.

It is perfectly apparent that in some of the Balkans there will be a great deal of sympathy for Russia even though that country does not lift a hand. It cannot be argued we should seek to prevent this and insist they model themselves after our own pattern.

It is very important that we find out what Russia thinks of the French problem. It is well worth keeping in mind that DeGaulle has had a representative there all along.

It is most necessary we ask something about the Free Germany committee in Russia, which committee Russians recognized as we have recognized the Free French committee. That sort of committee is much more flexible than our own "unconditional surrender" basis of approach.

There is a lot to be done. It is not a time to send one of our famous closed minds. Nor, of course, is it a time to send a visionary or a dreamer. It is a time to send one of our best minds and one of our Americans who is not afraid of his own people or of those with whom he has to deal.

I have now argued myself that Mr. Harriman ought to be the man all along. There just isn't anyone else on the scene who fits into this latest, and most important, mission to Moscow.

A Fable Concerning the Joneses And a Search For Perfect People

By ROBERT QUILLEN

Old man Bill Jones and his son Bill Junior were no good. They were ornery; they wouldn't work; they didn't pay their debts; and they frequently got drunk and raised the devil and would end up in jail.

Everybody in town despised them, and they had an equally bad opinion of everybody else. While suffering from hangovers they often consoled themselves by saying: "This is a rotten town. Darn everybody in it—the narrow-minded, self-righteous, hypocritical goodbodies."

But one year a strange preacher came to town and wrought what seemed a miracle. Old man Bill and Junior happened to attend one of the services and "got religion." They actually got up in public and confessed their sinful state, and everybody was astonished.

When old Bill and Junior got back to their shack at the edge of town, they sat on the porch in the moonlight and talked things over.

"I am a new man," said Junior, "and I intend to live different from now on. I can't eat crow. Maybe I could if folks around here were different, but they are a hard lot. They all belong to church, but they are mean and hateful and greedy and narrow. I've got to find me a town where I'm not known and where all the people are good and fine. That's the kind I want to associate with."

"That's a good idea, son," said the old man, "but I'm too old to change. You go where you think best; but if folks will put up with me, I'll just stay here and make the best of things."

So Bill Junior went away and old Bill remained, and the years slipped away one by one, and finally Bill Junior came back for a visit. He had aged fast and he looked unhappy, whereas the old man seemed to have grown younger and his countenance reflected the peace and contentment in his soul.

"Well, son," said old Bill, "did you find a place where all the folks are good and fine?"

"No," said Junior, "I didn't—though I often had hopes. I'd settle in a new town and mingle with the best folks, and at first they all seemed perfect; but after I got to know them well, they turned out to be as bad and full of faults as the folks here. Then I'd try another town, but it was always the same. I've never found the right kind of folks anywhere."

"That's too bad," said the old man. "It was a mistake to leave here, for something strange happened to this town. It changed completely. Soon after I reformed, the people here got to be the nicest folks you ever saw."

And I returned and saw all the oppressions that are done under the sun.—Ecclesiastes 4:1.

Oppressions are many and varied. The fact that they have always been, does not imply that they must always be. The sage of Ecclesiastes was deeply moved by those that he saw, particularly by political oppression. Poor Working Girls:
Will Nobody Cook Them
A Home Breakfast?

Do Atlanta girls, secretaries, stenographers, typists and other feminine office employees never eat breakfast at home?

Are the husbands of the married ones too sleepy to get up and brew a pot of coffee?

Do the single ones get up so late they have to jump into their clothes and finish their make-up on the bus? I've seen some of them do that.

Inspiration of this essay came from frequent visits to prominent office buildings.

Observation revealed that a thousand or so girls—of the age we used to call flappers—arrive in their offices, take the covers off their typewriters, hang their coats on hooks and go downstairs to breakfast. Between 9 and 10 a. m. the lunch counters and tables are as busy as a man in bathing trunks who has knocked over a hive of bees.

True, the greater number of patrons are consuming merely a soft drink or a cup of coffee. But I have observed numerous orders of scrambled eggs with bacon and other substantial viands.

I shall not go into the matter of man-hours—or woman-hours—lost forever under this system. That is not my business. If the boss doesn't object, why should I?

After all, the only thing that bothers me is why has the old-fashioned home breakfast gone out of style?

'Come Back to Me'

Bit of nature study is found in the McIntosh County News, of Darien, down on the Altamaha. I'm clipping a bit of it:

"Will the black cow which wandered off and left a lonely white goat in Pine Harbor kindly return and either stay with said lonely goat or take him away from there?"

"The aforesaid white ruminant (and I mean the goat) wandered into Pine Harbor several weeks ago in the company of a small black cow. The two animals grazed about the place, minding their own business and paying absolutely no attention to anybody or anything further than the green grass and the apparent necessity they felt for remaining at all times within close sight of one another, until one day while the goat was not looking the cow disappeared.

"The goat has been inconsolable ever since—articulately inconsolable, which is one reason he has my sympathy. Not that I wouldn't feel sorry for a lonely goat anyway, but I might not work at being sorry for him on a 24-hour

Gallup Poll Reveals:

Fortunes of Democratic Party Almost Wholly Tied to FDR

By GEORGE GALLUP,
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 23.—As the 1944 political campaign gets under way, it is becoming increasingly apparent that the fortunes of the Democratic party are almost completely tied to one man—Franklin D. Roosevelt.

In the course of talking to thousands of Democratic voters representing a true cross-section of the party's rank and file, the Institute has found that Mr. Roosevelt is their overwhelming choice for nominee next year. Additional evidence of the extent to which the party's success at the polls depends on Roosevelt is furnished in a new presidential "trial heat" just completed by the Institute.

Dewey Over Wallace.
In this test race, Henry A. Wallace, the Democratic leader who stands next to Roosevelt in popularity with the party's voters, was pitted against Governor Thomas E. Dewey, the most popular Republican candidate at the moment. Voters were asked to state their choice if presented with the two men as opposing candidates.

The results give Governor Dewey a decided advantage at this time. They show that Dewey would likely carry every section of the country except the south. In terms of total popular vote he would have a 6-to-4 advantage against Wallace.

This is in sharp contrast to the results of a similar trial heat in which Dewey was pitted against Roosevelt himself. In that survey Roosevelt polled a majority.

The contrast, indicating the basis if he didn't blast his woes all over our neighborhood every night until sleep overcomes him—on the porch of the house across the street."

Matter of 'Credits'

There was a fine story in the Butler Herald last week—so fine that Ralph McGill made it the theme of his column Tuesday with credit to its source. About an old Negro woman and her attitude toward work and the war.

I see the story reprinted in a Georgia paper and credited to "Exchange." That seems to me to come under the head of unfair practices.

The editor who clipped it must have known what paper he clipped it from. So why not give the paper—the Butler Herald—due credit? If it was worth reprinting it was worth crediting to its source.

They do that to me every now and then and it annoys me. They're welcome to reprint anything I write—and I feel complimented. But I do feel The Constitution should be mentioned.

After all these years I've discovered a use for that little pocket just inside the big right hand pocket of my coat.

It was designed to hold street-car tokens and the designer strength which President Roosevelt's prestige gives to the Democratic party, is shown in tabular form below.

Trial Heat.

Dewey Wallace
Dewey Wallace
Roosevelt

The sectional vote in the Dewey-Wallace test race follows:

N. Eng. 69% 31%
M. Atl. 64 36
E. Cent. 62 38
W. Cent. 61 39
South 36 64
Rocky Mtn. 61 39
Pac. Coast 64 36

As the above results reflect sentiment only as of this time, if Wallace were actually nominated and had the full backing of Roosevelt as well as the aid of the Democratic party's election machinery, he might reasonably be expected to do better than the above percentages indicate.

But the survey results do suggest that the Democratic party, after ten years in office, remains largely a "one-leader party." A number of liberal writers have explored the fact that the "progressive movement" in the United States leans so heavily on one personality, and claim that it must be weak indeed as a movement if there is only one man in the country who can successfully carry its banner at the polls.

The survey results likewise suggest that the Democratic party itself will bring increasing pressure on Roosevelt to run again, if for no other reason than the practical difficulties involved in trying to win without him.

thought it up 93 years before tokens were invented, which proves his genius.

By placing tokens in this pocket you can pick one up and drop it in the slot without pausing to separate it from dimes, nickels and quarters, if you possess same.

As for pennies, it has long been my custom to keep them in my left breeches pocket, a fine filing system.

I have not yet figured out the best way to separate hundred-dollar and thousand-dollar bills, but that is a bridge I've never had to cross. And see no immediate prospects.

Converting to Coal

Suspended by Ickes

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—(P) The Petroleum Administration for War announced today a suspension of its program for conversion of industrial and commercial oil-burning equipment to the use of coal "in view of the uncertainties in the coal situation."

Secretary Ickes, the petroleum administrator, warned, however: "No one should construe this suspension of the industrial and commercial conversion program as meaning that we are 'over the hump' as far as oil supplies are concerned."

War developments, he said, might make it necessary to resume the program later. Ickes emphasized that the suspension does not apply to conversions now in process.

Bond-Selling Dog

Missing at Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ga., Sept. 23.—(P) "Doc," the black and white great Dane which helped the Victory patrol boys sell $2,500 worth of war stamps and bonds for Muscogee's third war loan, has disappeared.

Billy and Tom Wages, twins, who own the dog and Billy Cone, across the street, comprise the self-styled Victory patrol. They can give no reason for their dog's absence except that he might be stolen—they insist he would never "desert."

The great Dane wore a red, white and blue saddle with pockets to hold the stamps and bonds on the campaign tour about the city.

'This Is the Army' Show

Will Net $12,000,000

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—(INS)—"This Is the Army" will net the Army Emergency Relief Fund an estimated $12,000,000, Irving Berlin producer of the show, said in Chicago tonight.

The stage version netted $2,000,000, he said. Warner Brothers has advanced $5,000,000 of anticipated profits on the Technicolor film version, and the film is expected to net another five million.

Berlin said he will leave soon for the Afro-European front with a streamlined version of the show.

NEW DELHI, Sept. 23.—(P)—Flying through improving monsoon weather, American medium and heavy bombers and RAF Beaufighters heavily attacked communications and military installations in Japanese-occupied Burma.

A U. S. air communiqué today announced "good results" in a medium bomber raid yesterday on freight yards at Sedaw, while B-24 heavy bombers demolished buildings and trackage in the Mandalay area.

All of the American planes returned safely.

'Keep 'Em Rolling' Truckers' Theme

A war conference to discuss truck conservation and maintenance was scheduled at the Henry Grady hotel today for home officials and Georgia representatives of the General Motors Truck & Coach Company.

H. J. Wasson and R. A. Camp arrived last night from Pontiac, Mich., to represent the GMC factories.

"Our conference is really a round-table discussion of our mutual problems arising from the wartime necessity of keeping our trucks rolling," Wasson said.

"To accomplish this," he added, "requires an army of mechanics and service men, all concentrating on the most important job of their lives. These are the things which are being discussed in detail today."

War Fund Rally Next Sunday Will Have Attractions for All

Attractions for all the family are included in the program next Sunday afternoon at the big rally of the United Community and War Work Fund of Atlanta.

For glamor seekers, there will be Constance Bennett, star of screen and radio.

For youngsters, there will be the Lone Ranger—in person—who will Sunday make one of his rare personal appearances.

For music lovers, on the stage and singing, will be Annamary Dickey, debutante of 1939 with the Metropolitan Opera Company.

And—for everybody—will be an assortment of war heroes close to Atlanta people and known throughout America.

For example, there is Colonel W. W. Barr, known to his hundreds of Atlanta friends as "Weedon" Barr—just returned and hospitalized from Guadalcanal—with leave to appear on this occasion. And there is Captain Carl W. Fox, of the Navy, who is setting foot on dry land again after a 14-month tour of duty on the U. S. S. Enterprise, an airplane carrier; Lieutenant Colonel William Ryder, paratrooper commander who saw active service in both the North African and the Sicilian campaigns; and Colonel Robert L. Scott, outstanding hero of the Flying Tigers under General C. L. Chennault in China.

The big campaign, seeking to raise $1,294,670 in Cobb, DeKalb, Fulton and Rockdale counties for the funds formerly raised separately by the Atlanta Community Fund and the Atlanta United War Work Fund, begins actively on October 18.

Headed up the drive is a trio of general chairmen, comprised of James C. Malone, William E. Mitchell and H. Carl Wolf.

Bank clearings amounted to $27,500,000 yesterday, showing an increase over the $19,200,000 for the same day last year, the Atlanta Clearing House reported.

BEST-DRESSED OPERA SINGER HERE—Annamary Dickey, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, will sing for war bond buyers at the municipal auditorium Sunday afternoon. The artist was selected as one of the six best-dressed American women last year.

Two Accused Of Turning In False Alarm

Two soldiers accused of turning in a false fire alarm because they "wanted a policeman" are now in the custody of military authorities.

Policemen and firemen both responded to the alarm, turned in early yesterday. One soldier was sitting, sound asleep, on the curb near the box in the 1100 block of Marietta street. The other was a short distance away. They didn't say why they wanted the policeman when taken into custody.

They were identified as Privates Maurice C. LeClair and Lawrence P. Thompson, attached to a guard company at the Marietta air base.

Home Treatment of Children May Aid Crowded Sanitariums

Home treatment of tuberculosis infected children may release 154 beds at Battle Hill Tuberculosis Sanitarium and Alto, state tuberculosis hospital, for other use within the next few months.

The modernized accepted preferable method of treating childhood attacks of tuberculosis is in the home rather than hospitalizing the cases, Dr. T. F. Abercrombie, state health commissioner, and Dr. J. C. Burch, superintendent of Battle Hill, asserted.

In fact, childhood patients at Alto have been reduced from a capacity of 75 to four, and at Battle Hill, Atlanta's tuberculosis hospital, white patients have been reduced from a capacity of 40 to 16, and Negro cases from a capacity of 39 to 18, with the number of patients dropping steadily.

Tuberculosis experts now believe that childhood infections are more effectively treated in their own homes. They cite that most childhood attacks are not infectious since the germ attacks glands rather than the lungs. In glandular attacks no one could be infected, doctors say.

Patients and their parents attend clinics where instructions are to the care of the patients are given. Fresh air, good food and rest are prime requisites in combating the disease, doctors add, and all these are available in most homes. Children, too, are better satisfied when they are at home.

Although Dr. Burch and Dr. Abercrombie would not hazard a prediction that their children's preventorium could be closed permanently, they said that if the trend continues other use can be made of idle space now given over to childhood patients.

Dr. Burch speculated over the prospect of turning the children's wings into wings for adults, but was not definite about any recommendation at the present time. He said he would not recommend placing adults suffering from pulmonary tuberculosis in the same wards with children, but that if all children were finally eliminated he saw no reason why the space should not be used for adults.

Thomas K. Glenn, chairman of the Grady hospital board of trustees, which controls Battle Hill, pointed out that many persons now are providing their own hospitalization, but that after the war and high paid jobs there might be even more need for the Battle Hill preventorium. He and Dr. Burch were studying the matter with a view of keeping Battle Hill functioning at peak efficiency.

There's a long list of hit tunes, including the title number, "Ain't Misbehavin'," "Diga, Diga Doo," "I Can't Give You Anything But Love," "There's No Two Ways About Love" and "I'm Nobody's Baby," which are sung and danced by the many talented members of the cast.

The Nicholas Brothers are featured in several highlight dance sequences and the music of Fats Waller and Cab Calloway will win the favor of jive fans. (P. J.)

U. S. Admits Cobb's Title To NYA Camp

The Constitution's Marietta News Bureau
MARIETTA, Ga., Sept. 23.—Controversy over ownership of the NYA buildings valued at about $60,000, on the Roswell road near the Atlanta-Marietta highway, today was solved with Cobb county's ownership of the property recognized by the federal government, according to County Commissioner George McMillan.

The controversy arose after abolition of the NYA project by congress when both Cobb county and the United States Treasury Department claimed ownership of the property.

The ruling was a result of a visit to Washington by County Attorney J. V. Carmichael, who said the 17 buildings comprised the largest and best equipped NYA plant in the south. The buildings were constructed by NYA students and are of the portable type. At the present they are occupied by the Army Air Corps, which will continue to use them under lease from the county, McMillan said.

He added after the war the buildings will be equipped as a vocational school or leased to one or more small manufacturing concerns.

Arnall

plans and leave the assembled soldiers with that matter alone on which to work before adjournment.

Additional Facts.
While Governor Arnall was announcing his zero hour for a showdown late yesterday, Representative John L. Mavity, chairman of the penitentiary committee of the Georgia house of representatives, was in Atlanta with other members of his committee, working on a report that will be the final seal of approval on Governor Arnall's plan.

"Our committee is getting its report ready right now," said Representative Mavity, an experienced and diligent worker for improvement in the state's penal system.

"We shall be finished by morning," said Mavity, "and I believe we shall add information to the reports already received by the Governor from Senate President Frank Gross and House Speaker Roy Harris and the special senate committee, headed by Judge Claude Pittman, who, I believe, did an excellent job and knows the facts as he stated them. Judge Pittman and his committee covered the whole state thoroughly. We have worked just as long and just as hard and, I believe, we shall furnish the Governor some interesting additions to his present collection of actual facts in Georgia."

That term—"showdown"—used in describing the Governor's meeting with the elected officials of the State Board of Prisons means little other than whether the members of the commission will agree to follow the Governor and the public of Georgia in establishing a modern system of civilized penal reform.

Governor Arnall has announced himself as a wholehearted believer in a state government following the law. Otherwise, he would have acted as his predecessors have and ousted the three members of the State Board of Prisons without granting them a hearing or allowing them to co-operate in a program universally demanded by Georgia citizens.

Public Interested.
The prison officials will be allowed to decide for themselves whether they shall fight to continue in Georgia outmoded penal practices that are meeting unanimous opposition from legislative leaders and from the public at large.

Governor Arnall, on his return Tuesday from the freight rate hearings at Denver, found the public of Georgia more interested in prison reforms than they were in reclassification of freight rates. Should it become necessary for Governor Arnall to call an extra session of the legislature to oust the state prison commission he probably could hold such an expensive session more economically than continuing the present commission until the regular legislative meeting 18 months from now, political observers said.

The Governor will ask the three present commissioners to delegate their powers to a director of corrections to be named in his present reform program.

Capital Rumors.
As capital rumors were that at least one and possibly more of the commissioners would not accede to the Governor's request, Arnall asked Attorney General T. Grady Head for a ruling as to whether the commissioners have any powers anyway.

The attorney general has made no ruling but lawyers have divided over the question. It was pointed out that should the Governor take the court route his reform program might be tied up in a long legal battle. On the other hand, the legislature could abolish the commission immediately.

There is no certain amount of notice required in calling an extra session, legal experts said.

Five-Day Enactment.
The minimum time in which a bill can be enacted into law is said to be five days. That is speeding the bill before both the house and senate with unanimous approval for a rush job in both branches.

Political observers believe the legislature will beat that time on this issue. Arnall was given unanimous support for most of his program last spring. The present reform program has the approval of public sentiment—and next year is election year.

State financial leaders estimated the daily cost of the legislature is $3,000. Thus a five-day session would cost $15,000.

Legislators who recently investigated present conditions contended that the last session of the legislature still has "five days coming to it," since it completed its 70-day job in 65 days.

Revision Expected.
And, besides the fact that it could hold this special session on time saved from last spring's session, legislators said they could save the $15,000 total annual sal-

Rome Private Is Both Captured, Released by German Artillery

By RELMAN MORIN.
WITH THE U. S. FIFTH ARMY IN ITALY, Sept. 19.—(Delayed)—(AP)—Private Aubrey Stamey, of East McGee street, Rome, Ga., is a slightly perplexed young soldier.

"It's a very strange situation indeed," he said, "when your own artillery gets you captured and the enemy's artillery sets you free."

All that happened within the space of 20 minutes the other night, during a confused night battle for Altavilla. The American artillery was shelling the Germans in the town itself and the German guns were trained on an American position on a nearby ridge.

Stamey was somewhere in between, having penetrated inside the town.

"Our guns let loose with a big blast and I heard shells coming, so I dived into a nice, big slit trench," he said. The slit trench was already occupied by six Germans.

"As soon as the guns quit for a minute the Germans left the trench and took me with them."

I thought I was sure on the way to Berlin about that time."

At that moment the enemy mortars came to Stamey's rescue.

"They fired a big batch of mortar shells which fell short and began exploding all around us," and the Germans scattered in all directions, plunging into foxholes. Stamey found himself all alone in a ditch beside the road.

"They couldn't see me in the dark and didn't try very hard. So when they were gone I just went back to our lines."

Stamey regards all artillery now with a slightly jaundiced eye.

Typists Beat Fulton, 19-13

Commercial High defeated Fulton High, 19 to 13, last night at Ponce de Leon Park.

Purvis' pass to Bright good for 40 yards, placed the Typists on the 20-yard line, from which point Jennings carried three times to the games' first touchdown.

In the third period Bright caught a pass for 30 yards and another for 15 to place the Typists on the 20-yard line again. Purvis then threw a pass over the goal line to Grammas for the touchdown, and Commercial led, 12 to 0.

The Red Birds also failed in the third. Childers and Patillo alternated in carrying the ball to the 15. Childers went around end for the score. Childers also ran around end for the extra point.

Commercial added its final score in the fourth. Thompson scored after a 25-yard pass to Bright, followed by a pass from Purvis good

Jackets To Start '42 B Team Against Tarheels

All in the Game
By JACK TROY

Porter Is Ready I probably should write about football today, since Georgia Tech is opening a new season tomorrow against North Carolina, but a letter I've just received from the former national advertising manager of The Constitution, Carrol (Dusty) Porter, can't wait. He has found an infallible cure for golfers who look up on their shols.

And so here's Dusty, about midway of his letter—
"Jack, I do something tomorrow (he's already done it now) that is an absolute cure for golfers who can't keep their heads down, and that is, go over the infiltration course. As you know, when you are crawling over this 100-yard course, machinegun bullets are flying thick and fast only 18 inches overhead, and land mines are exploding all around, and if you break and run you are a dead duck."

Good old Dusty. He took out insurance on Al Sharp before he left. He wants to be sure that when he comes back he'll get back on North Fulton with his Constitution reporter-victim. It keeps Dusty going, just thinking about it.

"I suppose the football sap is rising down in good ole Georgia (he writes as Private Porter from Fort Eustis, Va.) and me up here in the swamps of Virginia. And can't find out a damn thing about what's happening in my neck of the woods. Jack, I would appreciate your sending me a schedule of the Southeastern and Southern conferences. I will have the occasion to see some games up here, and I will, but I sure as hell won't have much interest in them. (Listen to that Auburn man!)"

"Jack, the commander up here has no respect for age (Dusty is 35, married and has a child), no respect at all, and a horse shouldn't have to do the hard work that I have had to do, and am still doing. Walter Winchell (the so-and-so) says when a man completes the training at Fort Eustis he deserves a Congressional Medal. However, Jack, he didn't say whether you would be physically able to carry it around after you got it. There have been times up here on the obstacle course where one more pound would have thrown Private Porter in the hospital, and, frankly, I am one of the few who haven't been."

"Jack, I have a two-hour break from K. P. duty and I had better be getting back. Let me hear from you when you have time on your hands, and your force is so large now, I know you have plenty of it."

"Kindest regards,
"CAROL (DUSTY) PORTER."
Anybody who plays the North Fulton golf course with Harold Hagen as regularly as Dusty did before Uncle Sam called never worry about infiltration courses, long hours or anything else.

And especially so since I. Gloer Halley concocted the diabolical scheme of putting a sand resembling powdered sugar in all the traps.

I think, on account of this, Halley should be made to wrestle the Angel. He is such a straight knocker he never gets in a trap. I believe, however, that the Angel, appearing tonight at the city auditorium, could get him in one.

They Shall Not Pass What Coach Bill Alexander has been wondering about apparently is in the making at Chapel Hill, N. C.

Alex had been wondering about Carolina's attack through the air, which seems to be the big thing of the day in football as well as war.

Here's the answer, according to the publicity department of the Tarheel outfit.

"North Carolina's football attack is showing a little more punch and flash than was expected, particularly in the air, but the defense has not come up to expectations."

(Editor's note: A couple of Frank Thomas' outstanding tackles, Jack Aland and Bill Whitmire, are playing second and third fiddle in the Tarheels' gridiron band.)

The Tarheels graciously concede that Georgia Tech is "the powerhouse of Dixie." I have just seen a roster that includes more than 100 men out for the North Carolina team, and when Aland and Whitmire have a hard time obtaining a place on the first eleven, I am ready to look for the nearest storm cellar and listen to the results by radio. I wish Harry Wismer were doing Saturday's game. I am very fond of his style of football announcing because, peculiarly, he is a gentleman who knows what is going on. And he lets the public in on it.

Harry is going to be on the Navy and North Carolina Preflight game Saturday, however, and so I'll have to brave it out with the poor Jackets.

Does anybody have an aspirin?

Exchange Club Gains In Bond-Bowling Sales

George Muse Buys $35,000 Bond as Exchanges Reach $594,725 Mark.

The Exchange Club gained a great deal of ground in the $10,000,000 Constitution-sponsored bond-bowling meet yesterday. Lorenzo Jones and his mates reported the sale of $58,050 in bonds to run their total bonds sold to $594,725 to date.

Over half of yesterday's Exchange Club sales was represented by one bond of $35,000 which was purchased by George Muse Clothing Company through Lorenzo Jones. That leaves the Exchanges still far behind the leading Kiwanians, but they are making a great effort to close the gap.

High scores in the bowling tourney so far are W. F. Lowery with a set of 429 for the men, and Katherine Herder, with 367 for the ladies.

Mrs. Francesca Thornton, of The Constitution, purchased a $7,000 bond, and George Catsakis one of the $5,000 denomination yesterday. J. B. Hood purchased a $3,500 bond at the bowling alley and William Beers bought one through the Exchange Club for $3,000.

The brisk selling leaves the over-all total of the tournament at $3,865,825 now.

Other sales yesterday included the following:
C. L. Meador, $1,000; Hood Oil Company, $1,000; George Small, $500; Albert I. Love, $500; J. A. Lloyd, $500; H. Schwarz, $500; George H. Small, $500; Ernest L. DeLoach, $250; Harry E. Dean, $200; Mrs. Nell Seidel, $200; Kate Goodover, $200; J. K. Hood, $200; Ed Robertson, $150; W. B. Hood, $100; Emma T. May, $125; Mrs. Christine B. Smith, $150; George H. Small Jr., $150; Mrs. Nellie C. Young, $100; Carl Lester, $100; A. N. Anderson, $100; Chester R. Elliott, $100; J. A. Lloyd, $100; Jewell W. Badgers, Wildcats,
Irish Didn't Want
Wolverines' Daley
CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—(INS)—Notre Dame, Wisconsin and Northwestern football officials were chagrined no end tonight—have been for several days, in fact.

They missed taking on Bill Daley, Minnesota's All-American fullback.

Navy officials telephoned the universities seeking to place Daley in the Navy V-12 program. The flashy leather lugger wasn't named at that time.

"No room," was the answer, "we're overloaded."

"We're overloaded, too," said a Michigan spokesman, "but send him along anyway."

The student turned out to be Daley, who played stellar ball last Saturday as the Wolverines walloped Camp Grant, 26 to 0.

Crippled Tech To Open With Green Eleven

Eight Starters Have Had No Varsity Experience.

By JACK TROY.

Constitution Sports Editor.

Naming his starting lineup for the North Carolina game Saturday afternoon at Grant field, Coach Bill Alexander said yesterday that "we'll take the field with last year's B team, the same one the Georgia Freshmen beat in the charity game."

Alex wasn't kidding. Not one of the starting backs had varsity experience, and four of the line men fall in the same category.

Here's the team that will face the robust Tarheels for the kick-off:

Jack Faulkner, blocking back.

Mickey Logan, wingback.

Red Broyles, fullback.

Ed Scharfswert, fullback.

John Bell, center.

Maurice Furchgott, right guard.

W. N. Smith, right tackle.

Walker Kilzer, right end.

And so there it is. Hill, Harper, Bell and Furchgott will be starting their first varsity game.

TECH CRIPPLED.

Tech is crippled for the opener, with Mutt Manning, the fine captain and center, having slight chance of getting into action.

Charlie Hoover, another fine center, definitely will not play. Duck Smith, who was to have started at fullback, has a broken finger.

Frank Beall is on the injured list. Alex quite scrimmaging following Wednesday's lengthy session.

"Can't take a chance on getting anybody else hurt," he said.

"We'll have a barbed team on the field Saturday, but it won't be as bad, possibly, as it may appear. We sure could use Hoover and Manning, however."

Alex looks for Carolina to throw a lot of passes and he doesn't know whether or not the Tech defense can stop the aerial game.

ALL EXPERIENCED.

As for North Carolina, practically every starter will be a boy who last year won a varsity letter at some college or university.

The Tarheels are the nominal favorite. They seem, on paper, to have a decided edge. And that's partly because of the Tech injuries. On the other hand, adversity often acts as a spur to the Jackets and they play some of their best games when it appears they can't put 11 men on the field.

Saturday's game will begin at 3 o'clock and is regarded as one of the most attractive home games of the season.

Tarheels' Whitmire Receives Navy Bid

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Sept. 23. (AP)—North Carolina's chances of victory against Georgia Tech took a slight dip today when Don Whitmire, All-Southeastern Conference tackle at Alabama last year, announced he had received a bid to enter the Naval Academy.

To add to Coach Tom Young's woes, Jack Hussey, veteran end, may not be able to play in the Georgia Tech game because of an old injury and Bernie Rohling, leading fullback, is also a doubtful starter because of a recent illness.

Whitmire received his sudden offer today and immediately went to Annapolis for his physical examination. Coach Young said he did not know whether the former Alabama star would remain with the Tarheels until his appointment is effective or remain at the Academy.

Tarheels Good, But Tech Should Win, Says Madry

Mayor of Chapel Hill Envisions Winner as Possible Ruler of Southern Football.

By BOB MADRY.

North Carolina Publicist and Mayor of Chapel Hill.

College publicists can be honest. So I say, honestly, Carolina has a better football team than the one at Chapel Hill last year. But let me hasten to add that I think the other colleges with V-12 men are in the same category. What any of us would do without the Navy trainees—well, I'd hate to envisage any such possibilities.

It strikes me that Georgia Tech has an edge in the game Saturday. The Jackets have been practicing longer than the Tarheels and are better organized. They have the same coach they had last year—and Bill Alexander is hard to beat anytime, anywhere.

But it also strikes me that the Tarheels have enough power to make the game fairly close.

TECH OUTSTANDING.

Most observers agree that Tech has the standout team in the southeast. Many others think that North Carolina and Duke have the standout teams in the Southern Conference.

Which means this game should have great bearing on the championship of the entire south. Suppose the Jackets beat the Tarheels Saturday? Or vice versa?

The Jackets and Tarheels both play Duke later on. Assuming that the pre-season forecasts know whereof they speak, the point is that the games between this triangle, Tech, Duke and Carolina—might well settle this championship business of the south.

Coach Tom Young, of Carolina, who succeeded Jim Tatum, who succeeded Ray Wolf, is at the Tarheel helm for the first time. As backfield coach last year and Tatum's assistant, he did a fine job. But let's not forget he is coaching the team for the first time.

SOUTHEASTERN BOYS.

Some of our best boys are from the southeast. In our starting lineup will probably be two Ole Miss boys, Barney and Rya Poole. Another Ole Miss who likely will start at tackle in Bill Erickson.

Jack Aland, from Alabama, will probably start at the other tackle. A few words about the team in general. We have a pretty good line, although in a game with the Navy Preflight in Chapel Hill last Saturday the line play was very ragged on defense and our backs looked better than was expected.

The line will average over 200 pounds, but the backfield will be pretty light—around 175 pounds.

The Tarheels have suffered a heavy loss, at least for the Tech game. Don Whitmire, an Alabama boy and one of the greatest tackle prospects we've ever seen today to take a physical examination for entrance to the Naval Academy. He had been looking great in practice. Bill Erickson, an Ole Miss boy, will probably take his place as starter.

As Carolina's publicity director and mayor of Chapel Hill, I wish to say this renewal of Carolina-

Tech football relation is a source of much genuine pleasure in North Carolina. We always looked upon the Carolina-Tech football games as one of the best series in the south and we shall never forget those wonderful basketball tournaments of a few years ago that were such athletic epics they will always be a lively topic of conversation wherever sports lovers gather.

Don't envy anyone who picked up a splendid used car. Do as HE did. Find one as lively like it in the Want Ads of the Constitution.

Bulldogs Like Underdog Role; Expect To Win

By F. M. WILLIAMS.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 23.—One thing about traveling with a freshman football team, they're too young to believe what the old folks say.

Everybody has given up hope for Georgia's Bulldogs in Saturday night's clash with L. S. U., except the Bulldogs themselves, who still think they have a chance.

Probably never in history has there been a Georgia team with greater spirit than this war-time eleven, which boasts only one man in the starting lineup who isn't sporting a "rat" cap and a bald head. It is a tradition at Georgia that freshmen football players must have their heads shaved.

Coach Wallace Butts, who never believes in advance that his team can win, says his ends are too inexperienced and lack ability, and that his punters can't punt far enough to give the Bulldogs a chance against the Bayou Tiger.

Georgia's team arrived here tonight after an all-day trip in a day coach from Atlanta, and went immediately to bed. They move on to Baton Rouge Friday and have a workout slated in the Tiger stadium that night.

Coach Butts plans two changes in his lineup this week. He will insert George Geric, a hard-charging frosh, at guard, with Billy Rutland, ordinarily a tailback, taking over at fullback.

Otherwise, the team will be the same as started against Presbyterian College last week.

Benton and Harris, or Daniel, will be at ends; Smith and Simons, tackles; Geric and Castronisi, the only member of the team not a first-year man, at guards; Bobby Hague at blocking back; Johnny Hook and either Edgar Bratten or Rabbit Smith at halfbacks, and Rutland at fullback.

The odds against Georgia are 3 to 1, with most of the boys who bet without a sigh of sentiment willing to spot the Bulldogs plenty of points.

Actress Joins Constitution's Cotton Pickers

By JACK TROY.
DISPATCH FROM THE PATCH, NO. 3—There is a bit more glamor attached to the third expedition of The Constitution cotton-picking group. There is, for instance, Miss June Preisser, of the movies, ready to tackle her first row of cotton near Lovejoy, Ga.

Miss Preisser, a New Orleans girl, wanted to do her bit for W. C. Wynn, head of The Constitution garage, who couldn't hire any professionals to get his cotton picked. It is a case here of The Constitution boys and girls aiding one of their own. Without this help, Wynn's cotton would drop to the ground and be ruined.

From The Constitution business office, A. J. Kaiser recruited the following cotton-pickers:

Muriel Griffin, Rufus Finley, Ed Robertson, Myrene Smith, Sarah Dunbar, Helen Purcell, Berta Mae Spinks and Eugenia Bridges.

Kenneth Rogers, the blond wizard of the camera, and Nell Johnson were recruited from the photographic department.

There is even a soldier in the group. He is Richard Greene. Perry Kitchens, Atlanta businessman, is trying his hand at cotton-picking, too.

For posterity, or something, Ken Stambaugh, who was Georgia's official cinematographer on the Rose Bowl trip, is taking newsreels of The Constitution gang and their allies in action. Ken came down from his home at Demorest to put it all on celluloid.

Manager Sam Kane, of the Roxy, a former University of Georgia athlete, agreed to spend half a day in Wynn's cotton fields. Miss Preisser also is doing half a day's work. She must be back on the Roxy stage by mid-afternoon.

It is quite a gang, and this is no publicity stunt. The boys and girls will pick a bale of cotton for Wynn . . . and that ain't hay, as they say.

State Employees To Go Into Fields Today
The first group of state employees to join school boys, businessmen, newspapermen and others in helping gather farm crops, will go into the cotton fields today.

Labor Commissioner Ben T. Huet announced about 100 employees of the labor department will spend the day on the farm of R. E. Mayo, five miles south of Fayetteville. They will donate their earnings to charity, while Mayo will provide them with a barbecue dinner. Huet is offering a $25 War Bond to the employee picking the most cotton.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—(AP)—The Belgian and Netherlands governments-in-exile announced today they had agreed on a postwar monetary stabilization plan.

"The agreement is the first concrete step toward realization of the international monetary plan now being prepared in Washington to which both governments are favorably inclined," the announcement said.

Asthma Mucus Fought Easy Way

Choking, gasping, wheezing, recurring attacks of Bronchial Asthma ruin your sleep and rob your blood of vitally important oxygen because you can't get air in and out of your lungs properly. But now it is no longer necessary to suffer from these terrible attacks without the benefit you may receive from a physician's prescription called Mendaco. Within a very short time after the first dose, Mendaco ingredients start circulating thru the blood, thus reaching the smallest as well as the largest Bronchial tubes where they usually quickly help liquefy, loosen and remove thick strangling mucus (phlegm), thereby promoting freer breathing and more restful sleep. In fact, Mendaco has proved so successful in helping thousands of sufferers from recurring spasms of Bronchial Asthma that it is sold under a guarantee of money back unless completely satisfactory. Ernie Pyle Recalls:

Mother's Fondness For Driving Horses

(Editor's Note: This is another of the favorite Ernie Pyle columns from past years that are being reprinted while Ernie takes a rest from his duties as war correspondent. This one is about his mother, now dead.)

By ERNIE PYLE.

DANA, Ind.—My mother would rather drive a team of horses in the field than cook a dinner. She has done very little of the first, and too much of the latter, in her lifetime.

My mother is living proof that happiness is within yourself, because she has done nothing for a whole long lifetime but work too hard, and yet I'm sure she has been happy.

She loves the farm. She wouldn't think of moving to town, as the other "retired" farmers do. She would rather stay home now and milk the cows than go to the state fair.

Chicken Raiser.

She is the best chicken raiser and cake baker in the neighborhood. She loves to raise chickens and hates to bake cakes.

She and my father took a trip east, and saw Niagara Falls, after they had been married 30 years. She didn't want to go, and was glad to get home, but did admit she enjoyed the trip. The highlight of the journey (which included Washington and New York) was a night in a tourist cabin near Wheeling, W. Va. It was fixed up so nicely inside, she said, just like home. She talks about it yet.

My mother probably knows as little about world affairs as any woman in our neighborhood. Yet she is the broadest-minded and most liberal of the lot.

I don't remember her ever telling me I couldn't do something. She always told me what she thought was right, and what was wrong, and then it was up to me.

Pipe Incident.

When I was about 16 I forgot and left my cornob pipe lying on the window-sill one day when I went to school. When I got home that night, she handed me the pipe and said, "I see you're smoking now." I said "Yes." And that was all there was to that.

She thinks it's awful for women to smoke, but I imagine if she had a daughter who smoked, she'd think it was all right.

My mother is a devout Methodist and a prohibitionist. Yet she and my father voted for Al Smith in 1928, because they thought he was a better man than Hoover. Some of their neighbors wouldn't speak to them for months because they voted for a Catholic and a wet. But they didn't care. They are always doing things they think are right.

My mother never can get her big words straight. She calls the quintuplets the "quintuplets."

3 Interests in Life.

My mother has had only three real interests in her whole life—my father, myself, and her farm work. Nothing else makes much difference to her. And yet, when I left home 17 years ago, to be gone forever except for brief visits, she was content for me to go, because she knew I was not happy on the farm.

My mother has quite a temper. I remember once when the liniment man came, and said we hadn't paid him for a bottle of liniment. My mother said we had. The man said we hadn't. So my mother went and got the money, opened the screen door, and threw it in his face. He never came back again.

She always tells people just what she thinks. A good many of our neighbors have deservedly felt the whip of her tongue, and they put over it awhile, but whenever they're in trouble they always thaw out and come asking for help. And of course get it.

Helped Neighbors.

My mother is the one the neighbors always call on when somebody gets sick, or dies, or needs help of any kind. She has practically raised a couple of kids, besides myself. She has always been the confidant of the young people around here.

I started driving a team of horses in the fields when I was nine. I remember that first day perfectly. My mother had gone to a club meeting, but she came home in the middle of the afternoon, and brought me a lunch of bread and butter and sugar out to the field. And also, I suppose, she wanted to make sure I hadn't been dragged to death under the harrow.

My mother played the violin when she was younger, but she gave it up after I took one term of lessons. I gave it up too. You should have heard me.

Life of Pioneer. My mother doesn't realize it, but her life has been the life of a real pioneer. You could use her in a book, or paint her picture, as one of the sturdy stock of the ages who have always done the carrying-on when the going was tough. She isn't so well any more, but she seems to work harder than ever. We try to get her to rest. But she says, "Oh, the work has to be done." We say, "Yes, but you don't have to do it. Supposing you were gone, the work would still be here, but you wouldn't have to do it." But she doesn't understand what we mean.

Elinor Glyn Succumbs at 78—Put Sex Appeal in Parlor Talk

By E. C. DANIEL.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Elinor Glyn, who put sex appeal into parlor conversation under the name of "It," died today, but the legend of her life, which was as exciting as the plots of her novels, is still alive after half a century.

Mrs. Glyn would have been 79 on October 17. She had been in a nursing home three weeks. For the past two days she had been unconscious.

In the midst of a war which has substituted utility for glamor in everything, London looked nostalgically back to the Glyn legend for a moment.

Elinor Glyn emerged from the over-stuffed Victorian era into the gay setting of Edwardian England, freshly red-haired and green eyed, smartly gowned, clever and witty. She knew everyone.

In 1892 she married wealthy Clayton Glyn, and on their honeymoon in Brighton he rented the public baths at the Metropole for two days in order, he said, that he might appreciate the beauty of the mermaid he had married.

They settled in a 300-year-old farmhouse in Essex near Easton Lodge, home of Mrs. Glyn's friend Frances, Lady Warwick, where the aristocracy of England, including the then Prince of Wales, gathered in the nineties.

In 1900 she wrote her first novel, "The Visits of Elizabeth." Seven years later she published "Three Weeks," which was publicly denounced as immoral but which heralded the advent of jazz 10 years before its time.

"She wrote frankly of love when the world was squeamish," said the Evening News. She produced 31 books and nine movies. In later years, her legs still trim, her hair still startlingly red and her face chalk white in the fashion of the day, she occupied a vast apartment in London decorated in the style of the Edwardian era which was her heyday.

Carpets were thick and soft and Mrs. Glyn greeted guests from a leopard-skin divan. No matter what "it" meant to the public, Mrs. Glyn always said, "when I wrote about it the word meant personal magnetism, charm."

However, the Evening News said that, although she is supposed to have invented "it," a character in Kipling's "Mistress Barhurst" already had said, "it isn't beauty, so to speak, nor good talk necessarily. It's just it."

Just Ramblin'

By MARY HARRIS ROWSEY.

A DELIGHTFUL characteristic of Atlantans is their enthusiasm over the comings and goings of those with claim to fame, reflected or otherwise. This is the secret of the city's charm and one of the reasons for its unending hospitality. There is a total lack of blase coldness often felt in large cities, and this always appeals to visitors. Not one has ever failed to respond warmly to Atlanta's "brass band reception" attitude.

All this is leading up to the interest being stirred by the pending arrival of handsome Ensign Martin Arrague, whose name is a household word to movie fans, for he is the husband of glamorous Norma Shearer. Being the husband of a famous star, however, isn't his only claim to fame. His name is one well known in the world of sports.

He is a skier of some note and prior to entering the Navy was instructor of this sport at Sun Valley, Idaho, favorite vacation playground among Hollywood topnotchers. It was here that he met Miss Shearer, an expert skier herself, whom he married in 1942.

Ensign Arrague is expected to arrive next Tuesday and will stay at the Biltmore hotel while here, Miss Shearer, with true wifely concern, herself having wired for the reservation. Although he isn't yet aware of the fact, he will be installed in the handsome suite which had for its very first occupant Movie Star Annabella (Mrs. Tyrone Power) in private life. He was entranced everyone during her recent visit here for the purpose of assisting at the opening of the Third War Bond drive.

Judging from photographs, Ensign Arrague is "tall, dark and handsome," so much so that it's a wonder how he escaped the film world. Even so, he hasn't escaped his share of fans, for, according to movie gossip columnists, never was skiing on the west coast so popular as while he was instructing at Sun Valley.

IT PROBABLY won't be long before Atlanta shines up its brass band for talented Edna Screven, who is studying voice in New York. She writes home that she has been enjoying a number of interesting and memorable experiences, especially while assisting in the Third War Bond drive. Her lovely voice has been heard on a number of rally programs, and she recently appeared on one with Eileen Farrell and Victor Mature in Waterbury, Conn. This was an especially exciting day for her, she says.

Another thrilling experience was sitting close to such glittering personages as Carol Landis, Whispering Jack Smith, Constance Bennett, Lowell Thomas, Babe Ruth and Anne Rutherford at the opening of "Stars on Ice" at Madison Square Garden.

Edna was seated in the box reserved for a special group, of which she is one, who have entertained the boys in the armed forces with their various talents. Edna's contribution in this direction included entertaining the service men at the port of embarkation and at Providence, Rhode Island.

The pretty Atlantian, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Screven, was a popular figure on the campus at the University of Georgia last year. Among other honors, she was voted the outstanding Alpha Chi Omega pledge of the year. Her vocal talents did not escape notice, either, for she was chosen to sing the leading role in "The Firefly," presented at the university just before she departed for New York.

SOMETIMES that snappy walk and alert look that all WAVES seem to have is only a pose when they know they are being observed. Donning a uniform doesn't make them superwomen, by any means. There still are occasions when they know the ache of tired feet and wilt easily, even as you and I.

If you had been at the Y. W. C. A. at 37 Auburn avenue one day last week, you would have seen a dozen or more wilted WAVES—exhausted and travel-stained after countless hours aboard trains. They had been sent to the "Y" to rest during a stopover of an hour or so.

With their comfort and refreshment in mind, someone asked what they would like the most. In answer, they shouted in unison: "A shower!"

So they were escorted to the spic and span shower room, one of the many delightful features of the "Y" where they soon received. Cool and crisp once more, they had just time enough to scan the newest magazines, or to stretch out for a moment on one of the numerous lounges, before they were off again on another stretch of their journey.

Sarah (Mrs. George) Beatie, vice president of the "Y" board, says with reason: "Many a wilted WAVE comes in our doors, but never OUT." The "Y" is doing a marvelous job in the way of providing comforts for the women in uniform. Scarcely a day goes by that Marines, WAVES and SPARS, Army and Navy nurses, besides WAVES, do not take advantage of the hospitality offered them there.

Fowler-Whitehurst Marriage Solemnized in Annapolis, Md.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 23.—The marriage of Miss Julia Jane Fowler, of Douglasville, daughter of Senator and Mrs. Alpha Fowler, to Lieutenant Robert E. Whitehurst Jr., United States Navy, of New Bern, N. C., was solemnized at 8 p. m. on August 25 in the chapel of the United States Naval Academy here.

Officiating at the ceremony was Lieutenant Commander W. J. Kukn, Chaplain Corps, United States Navy. A program of music was presented by J. W. Crooley, organist.

Mrs. Fowler, her daughter's matron of honor and only attendant, wore fuchsia crepe with black accessories and carried an old-fashioned bouquet of yellow roses and blue delphinium.

The bride entered the chapel with her father, by whom she was given in marriage, and they were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Lieutenant James D. Small, United States Navy, of Rochester, N. Y. She was lovely in an afternoon dress of blue crepe with brown accessories and she carried a bouquet of bride's roses, orchids and gypsophylla.

Mrs. Whitehurst, mother of the groom, was becomingly gowned in a black crepe model trimmed in white, with black accessories and a shoulder cluster of red and white roses.

Mrs. Whitehurst is the only daughter of Senator and Mrs. Fowler, of Douglasville. She received her education at Douglas County High school and the University of Georgia. For the past year she has been employed in the personnel department of the Bell Aircraft Corporation of Atlanta.

Lieutenant Whitehurst is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Emmett Whitehurst, of New Bern, N. C., and was a member of the class of 1942 of the United States Naval Academy. For the past year he has been in active service and is

The Week's New Books: True Democracy Will Be Achieved With Personalism, Not Individualism

THE SURVIVAL OF WESTERN CULTURE by Ralph Tyler Flewelling. Harper & Brothers, New York. $3.

This book was written partly as an answer to Spengler's historic "Decline of the West" and partly as a plea for a survival of democracy. The greater value lies in the latter purpose since the main stress is the conflict between democracy, which elevates the individual, and authoritarianism, which places the state above all else. Both may be found in western culture.

Which way is western culture headed? Spengler's "sense of destiny" predicted the end would come when there were no new worlds to conquer. Professor Flewelling (head of the school of philosophy at the University of Southern California) places his faith in the west, providing the individual is supreme. But he goes even further than that. "If ever there shall come a day of true outstanding creative genius, of true democracy, of religion, pure and undefiled, of a world saved from disorder, and a golden age come into being, it will be the day which witnesses the advance from individualism with its self-seeking to personalism with its self-giving."

An interesting thesis is the author's comparison of geometry's influence upon Oriental culture with arithmetic's contributions to democracy. Arithmetic, he says, is the mathematics of the lowly in that all the integers of a given whole must either be exactly like every other, or the qualities which would differentiate them must be neglected as unessential.

Many will prefer the sociologist's angle (as Harry Elmer Barnes' Society in Transition) to the philosopher's, but few who will read this book through will deny that it offers a powerful challenge to the survival of western culture. Nor does Flewelling infer the west will win out at the expense of the east because "east and west must come together in mutual understanding and helpfulness if civilization is not to perish."

CLEAR THE TRACKS! By Joseph Bromley. (Whitely House. $2.75.)

An appealing and humorous story of an old-time locomotive engineer who started railroad-ing as a "call-boy" in the days when every rail was a thrill and adventure lay around every curve. When you could pull a freight into a siding and go fishing with the crew in the summer... when highballing home was a business for the hand brakes didn't always work to perfection... "wildcatting" through a blizzard was a chance to take... and the engine yards held more attraction than a circus.

To Joe Bromley, a call-boy of 17, engineers were lords of the rails, and at 20 he became the youngest engineer on the road, after two years of chucking timber into the wood-burning engine and firing a high-steam coal engine.

The glamor of the hard seat-box on the right-hand side of the cab never faded for him, who was bewitched by the music of iron wheels. However, after 20 years in the cab, a bad ear necessitated his beginning 27 years of riding the plush as an investigator of wrecks.

Besides his own personal story of the rails, Mr. Bromley shows the growth and progress of railroading from the early wood-burning days to the present in this highly entertaining book which recaptures these days with all their humorous robust charm.

Mary Pickford to Play Mother In "Life With Father," On Screen

By Louella O. Parsons.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 23.—(INS)—If "Life With Father" is ever to be made into a movie I don't see how Oscar Serlin can turn down the offer made him by Arthur Lyons and David Loew of producing Artists. The deal long distanced Serlin is a $600,000 flat price for the movie rights. Serlin to produce, writers, Howard Lindsay and Russell Crouse to write the screen movie offers ever made for a stage play and Mary Pickford, if she is willing, to play the mother.

This, as far as I know, tops all property.

Quite a story back of "Voice in the Wind," the movie starring Francis Lederer which United Artists will release. Several months ago two men named Arthur Ripley and Rudolph Monty rented space at one of the independent studios, signed Lederer and Sigrid Gurie for the leads and poured their money into the movie. It was a big gamble because they had no releasing contract with a major company. Here's the happy ending; the finishing product is so good U. A. grabbed it after the biggies had seen the first screening. Reminds me of the way Josef Von Sternberg got his start in Hollywood. He made "Salvation Hunters" on a shoe string and then sold it to Charlie Chaplin.

It's far from set for Joseph Cotten to play the "Wilson" role. Leading candidates at this writing is Raymond Massey, but there is a hurdle here, too. Massey has signed to do the Katharine Cornell show, "Friends and Lovers," this winter. If Darryl Zanuck is able to snag him for the part of the first World War president they will have to "buy" him out of the show. Meanwhile he has agreed to make an extensive test in the makeup and character of Wilson. Today Charles Coburn put his "X" on Arthur Levey, play script of Professor Poindexter Holmes in "Wilson."

Television is more than just around the corner. It is practically with us. As soon as the war is over and it is possible to get the necessary materials, you'll find that all major companies will be ready. Every studio is preparing so that when television time comes they won't be caught napping as they were when sound arrived. The latest evidence of television is the new Scophony Corporation of America, which has patented a large screen television for motion picture theaters, homes, schools and churches, both in black and white and natural color. According to Arthur Levey, president of Scophony Company, his firm is working on a plan to make three-dimensional television a reality.

Snapshots of Hollywood Collected at Random: Sally Haines, former wife of Bert Wheeler, sends word from San Antonio she is the bride of Sergeant Marion Wolfe Jr., of the Signal Corps; Helen Forrest and Eddie Hall, the actor, are pricing diamond rings. She's the pretty warbler with Harry James; Joan Crawford and Phil Terry, who have been married almost a year, have finally slipped away for a five-day honeymoon; Twentieth has sent two scripts to Gene Tierney, who is in Washington awaiting arrival of the stork; the Johnny Burkes (he is the Para song writer) welcomed a six-pound boy Wednesday. They have twin daughters; Manager Lambert O'Neill, of the Beverly Wilshire hotel, is plenty proud of his daughter, Peggy, who has landed a role in "Mr. Co-Ed" with Red Skelton; Gail Russell was 19 years old today and the boy friend, Bill Edwards, gave her a gold ring engraved "Forever and Forever." That's all for today. See you tomorrow!

Change of Exercises Helpful, Obtains Better Results

By Ida Jean Kain.

Any exercise can be good, bad, or waste motion, depending on how you do it. So when you take your fling at streamlining, go scientific. If you do, you are after results to get the results you are after.

There are several exercises almost every woman could use to advantage. One is to straighten out the posture and another is to firm the muscular girdle and flatten the abdominal curve. You get at some of the same muscles in each. Let's start off with these and go into the more streamlining movements tomorrow.

To improve posture:

Position: Sit against a wall with legs crossed in front, tailor fashion, hands down on floor at sides with thumbs and arms touching wall.

Movement: Flatten the entire back against the wall and stretch the neck up, chin level. Pull up and in with the lower abdominal muscles as you flatten the small of the back. Now, hold everything, and slowly circle arms, without removing thumbs or elbows from wall, until they are straight up overhead. See if you can't stretch a fraction more, then lower arms in line with shoulders and place hands on shoulder tips. Relax. Repeat three times.

Chance to go wrong: Letting arms and back come off the wall does away with the value of the exercise. Go through the movement very slowly and think about what you are doing. Even when you get it down pat, do not repeat more than 10 times.

To firm muscular girdle:

Position: Lie on back on floor with feet elevated to chair seats, legs straight, arms down at sides and small of back pressed against floor.

Movement: Bend right knee up to chest, return to position, and repeat with left knee. Repeat 12 times to begin with, later 25.

Chance to go wrong: Letting the small of the back come off the floor and forgetting to pull up and in with the lower abdominal muscles. The reason for bending knee to chest is to intensify this up-and-in pull.

In those two exercises you tone the arm and shoulder muscles and strengthen your anti-gravity muscles forming the abdominal girdle. They are easy—but don't let that deceive you! They're easy to do wrong, too.

Tomorrow we'll work on waistlines and hips.

When you get stale on an exercise, you don't get as good results. After a few days, change over to some of those contained in "Posture Makes the Figure" and "Exercises to Discipline a Protruding Abdomen." Please enclose large stamped return envelope with your request for the leaflets, and three cents in stamps or coin to cover cost of handling.

Insurance That Doesn't Insure

Eighteen months ago when examined for selective service I was found o. k. Now I have a hernia on the left side. Don't know how I got it. The — with whom I am insured will pay only $24 towards the cost of injection treatment which my doctor advises.

(P. H. R.)

Answer—Either they hope to get off cheaply or perhaps their medical department is a bit antiquated. Industrial commissions in most of the states permit the workman to select the method of treatment he wants. The U. S. Army accepts men cured of hernia no matter whether they have been cured by injection treatment or by operation.

Adolf claims to have Mussolini and acts like he hit the jackpot. If Benito is the first prize, I'd hate to look at second.

The real prize in the Italian invasion was the fleet. Mussolini said the Mediterranean was an Italian lake but now he is willing to settle for Como.

If Benito ever sticks his chin over a balcony again he has more nerve than a war contractor making paper shoes.

He has lost his boats, he has lost his planes, he has lost his Army and he has lost his country. But like any other busted gambler, he's still shaking the dice.

Volunteer Life Buys Property For $430,000

For a consideration of approximately $430,000 the downtown site of the Volunteer building, which stands at Broad, Luckie and Forsyth streets, N. W., has just been sold from the executors of the estate of Mrs. May Inman Gray to the Volunteer State Life Insurance Company, of Chattanooga, Tennessee.

Some ten years ago the building on the site, which is 182 feet on Luckie, with a width of 50 feet on both Broad and Forsyth streets, was leased to United Corporation, a subsidiary of the Volunteer State Life Company, the latter maintaining branch offices in the building, with the lease yet to run for 37 years.

In 1922 the land was leased to Sig. Samuels & Associates, and the Metropolitan theater erected on the site. In later years the United Corporation acquired the leasehold, demolished the theater and erected the present office building.

The property is practically in the heart of Atlanta's business section and the deal just completed is one of the largest downtown real estate transfers in several years.

Ward Wight, of Ward Wight & Company, realtors, represented the purchasers in the current sale, while Forrest Adair Jr., of Forrest Adair Company, represented the seller. Everett Strupper is the general agent for the Volunteer State Life, maintaining branch offices in the building.

Boost nutrition with the popular family of dried beans.

Dried Beans Are Nutritious and Thrifty

Dried beans, economical in pots and in pennies, are a boon to the wartime meal planner. Beans belong to the protein group of foods and are one of the cheapest and best of the meat alternatives. Add to these facts, still another, that beans are liked by almost everyone and make good family or party fare, you see why the bean pot should be highly appreciated these days of shortages and rationing. Home baked beans baked in a large or in individual pot are a grand supper dish, for buffets or Sunday nights. Served with a large bowlful of green salad, crispy French or rye bread and plenty of coffee you have a menu that easily pleases everyone. A fruit pie makes a perfect finish. Here are good bean dishes, beginning with baked beans, Boston style:

Baked Beans, Serving 12. Wash 2 pounds navy beans, cover with cold water and let soak overnight. Put on to cook in the same water and boil gently 45 minutes. Mix 2 cups of water from the beans with 2 1/2 cup dark molasses, 2 tablespoons salt, 1 tablespoon dry mustard and 2 tablespoons brown sugar. Mix well. If you like, you may add a small can of tomato puree or sauce.

Drain the beans, saving the water, and put them in 2 bean pots, filling the pots three-fourths full. Cut 1-2 pound salt pork into cubes and put half in each pot. Pour half the seasonings over the beans in each pot and then add enough of the water drained from beans to cover them. Cover the pots and bake in a slow oven, 250 degrees from 4 to 6 hours, adding a little more water if necessary to keep beans moist. These may be cooked one day and reheated the next. To serve 6, divide recipe in half.

Casserole of Dried Lima Beans With Bacon.

Soak 1 pound small dried lima beans overnight. Drain, cover with fresh cold water and heat to boiling point, and boil gently for 45 minutes. Chop onions to make 1-2 cup and mix with 1-2 cups finely chopped celery. Melt 1-4 cup bacon drippings, add onions and celery and 2 tablespoons chopped parsley and simmer 10 minutes without browning. Drain cooked beans, mix with the vegetables, add salt, pepper and paprika to taste and pour into a deep baking dish. Melt two more tablespoons bacon fat, blend in 2 tablespoons flour and add 1-2 cups water drained from the beans. Cook until thickened and pour over the beans. Place strips of bacon close together over the top of beans and bake in a moderate oven 350 degrees, 1 hour, or until beans are very tender and bacon crisp. Several slices of tomato may be added to the beans, if desired.

Kidney Bean Loaf.

Soak 1 pound kidney beans overnight. Cook in same water until beans are tender, about 1-2 hours. When done, the water should be practically absorbed. Mash beans, and mix with 1-2 teaspoons salt, and 1-2 teaspoon pepper. Melt 1-2 cup meat drippings, add 1-2 cup chopped onion and stir until onion begins to brown. Stir in 4 cups coarse bread crumbs, then mix with the beans. Add 1-4 pound grated cheese and 1-2 cup tomato catsup. Mix well and pack into a greased baking pan and bake in a slow oven, 325 degrees, for 1-1/4 hours. Mix 1 tablespoon margarine with 1-4 cup hot water and baste loaf during baking. Turn out on hot platter and serve with left-over meat gravy or with brown sauce. Melt 2 tablespoons margarine, add 1 teaspoon minced onion, and 1 tablespoon minced parsley and stir until beginning to brown. Stir in 3 tablespoons flour, and brown. Add 1 cup hot water, and stir until slightly thickened. Add 2 tablespoons sliced stuffed or ripe olives, if desired, and serve hot with bean loaf.

Bean Soup.

Soak 1-2 pound navy beans overnight. Drain, cover with fresh water and heat slowly to boiling point. Add a small onion, a small piece of bayleaf, 1 teaspoon salt and 1/4 teaspoon sugar. Boil gently until beans are soft enough to mash. Rub beans through a sieve; there should be enough beans and moisture to make 2 to 2-1/2 cups. Dice 2 slices bacon and fry until crisp. Stir 2 tablespoons flour into bacon fat and blend. Add 2 chopped fresh tomatoes, and 1 cup water. Simmer 5 minutes then add to bean puree. Add 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and enough water to make 6 cups of soup in all. Heat to boiling point and boil gently 5 minutes. Serve hot with toasted croutons.

Mix a little curry powder with the mashed yolks of hard cooked eggs and moisten with a little top milk. Stuff the egg whites with this, place in a hot dish and surround with hot tomato sauce. Serve for supper or luncheon.

Keep Baked Apples Juicy

Apples add a great deal of fine food value and interest to our fall and winter meals. Apple pie, apple dumplings, applesauce, fried apple rings, are some of the ways this popular and healthful fruit comes to the table. Baked apples are a simple but excellent dessert or breakfast fruit and are especially liked if the apples are baked to a soft, juicy goodness. There are a number of recipes for baking apples; stuffed with marmalade, brown sugar, raisins, nut meats and such. But whatever recipe you use be sure to bake the apples until they're very soft and keep them juicy. Here is a simple recipe using syrup for sweetening:

6 apples, tart
1 cup corn syrup (or honey)
1/4 cup water
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Core apples and remove peeling from around the top of each. Do not peel all the way down. Arrange apples in deep baking pan and pour syrup, made by boiling syrup and water together. Add lemon juice and pour over apples. Bake in moderate oven, 375 degrees, basting often with syrup around apples.
Baked apples are a special treat when served with peanut drop cookies made this way:

Peanut Drop Cookies.
1-2 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
2 cups enriched sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-4 cup milk
1-2 cups chopped peanuts
Cream shortening and sugar together. Add beaten eggs. Blend thoroughly. Add alternately with milk to creamed mixture. Add nuts. Mix only enough to blend. Drop by spoonfuls on greased baking sheet. Bake in moderate oven, 400 degrees, about 10 minutes. Makes 8 dozen 1-2 inch cookies.

Baked Apple Dumpling.
Mix and sift 1-2 cups flour, 2 1-2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon salt and 1 tablespoon sugar. Rub in 5 tablespoons shortening and while blended, mix to a soft dough with about 1-2 cup milk. Turn out on a floured board and roll to 1-4-inch thickness. Cut in 4 squares. Peel and core 4 medium apples and place an apple in the center of each square. Put 1 tablespoon sugar in the apple cavity, sprinkle lightly with cinnamon or nutmeg, and water and pour in the pan around dumplings. Bake in moderate oven about 40 minutes, basting several times with the syrup in the pan. Moisten edges and press firmly together. Place the dumplings in a greased baking pan. Mix 2 table-

IDEAS FROM A COOK'S NOTEBOOK

RATION-POINTERS.

Make a thick vegetable soup with a beef or veal shank bone for stock. Have the bone well cracked, and buy one with a little meat on it. (Should be about 4 points for the bone with meat.) Use rice or spaghetti for thickening and a good variety of vegetables. Just before serving time drop dumplings on the top of the soup and serve a steaming plateful of soup with a dumpling on each. Add a little of the well cooked meat. Serve with whole wheat bread or hot corn muffins.

An excellent luncheon dish is a hot cole slaw with bologna slices. To make the slaw, shred 1 pound cabbage quite fine, put in heavy frying pan and sprinkle lightly with salt. Add 1-2 cup hot water, cover and cook slowly for 10 minutes. Beat 1 egg with 1 tablespoon sugar, 1-4 cup vinegar and pepper to taste. Stir into the hot cabbage. Serve cabbage heaped upon a hot platter surrounded by thin slices of bologna. Fresh rye bread is an excellent accompaniment.

SHRIMP CHOP SUEY: Wash and clean a large bunch of celery and cut the stalks across in slanting slices a scant eighth-inch thick. Chop or cut the small leaves and measure 2 cups in all. Peel 2 medium onions, cut in half and then in thin slices. Put 1-4 cup margarine in a saucepan, add the celery and onions, cover and cook slowly for 10 minutes but do not brown. Shell and clean 1 pound fresh cooked shrimp and break each shrimp in two pieces. Add 2 1-2 cups water to the cooked vegetables, 1 teaspoon salt, a little pepper and 2 tablespoons soy sauce. Simmer for 5 minutes, then stir in 2 tablespoons cornstarch mixed with 1-2 cup cold water. Boil for 5 minutes, add the shrimp, reheat and serve over mounds of boiled rice or macaroni cooked after being broken into small pieces.

To Cook Fresh Shrimp. To cook fresh, raw shrimp, have ready about 1-2 quarts of boiling water for each pound of shrimp. To the water add 1 tablespoon salt, a small bayleaf and 1-4 teaspoon chili powder or 1-8 teaspoon cayenne pepper. When the water is boiling vigorously, drop in the shrimp, reduce the heat and let the shrimp simmer for 25 minutes. Drain, cool, remove the shells and the small black intestinal vein. They may then be used for salad, for creaming, served as curried shrimp, etc. If you are not going to use them at once, keep them covered in the refrigerator as they will spoil quickly.

BEET SOUP: Put 3-4 cup chopped cooked beets and any beet juice in a saucepan with 1 cup finely diced raw potato, 1-2 cup sliced celery and celery leaves, a thick slice of onion and a small piece of bayleaf. Add 4 cups hot water, cover and boil gently for 25 minutes. Then rub through a coarse strainer. Mix the strained soup with 2 cups milk, 2 tablespoons margarine, salt and pepper to season and reheat to boiling point. Thicken with 2 tablespoons flour mixed smooth with a little cold water and cook 1 minute. Serve hot with toasted croutons.

Hot Deviled Eggs With Cheese Sauce.

Cook 6 fresh eggs in hot water just below the boiling point for 30 minutes. Cover with cold water and cool slightly. Then peel and cut in half lengthwise. Remove the yolks and mash them with 1 teaspoon dry mustard 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon grated horseradish, 1 tablespoon minced olives and 1 to 2 tablespoons top milk, or enough to make a thick, creamy paste. Fill the egg whites roundly full with the mixture and sprinkle thickly with very fine dry bread crumbs that have been fried until crisp and brown in a little bacon grease. Put the eggs on slices of thin toast, allowing 3 halves to a serving and cover with hot cream sauce mixed with 1/2 cup grated American cheese. Serve as a meat substitute.

Try cream cheese well mashed and mixed with mayonnaise as a dressing for jellied tomato salad. Add a few chopped chives for seasoning.

For another good topping for gingerbread, whip corn or cane sirup into peanut butter until the mixture spreads easily.

Thin cream cheese sandwiches, French toast and served with jelly, make thrifty and unusual desserts.

PORK IS ACE HIGH IN THIAMINE

How times change—and with it ideas. We're grateful that many of these newer ideas are based on scientific facts, not on "hear-say." Time was when pork, which was so highly prized as food for courageous fighters, was considered in a less favorable light for the home folks. But now, science has proven pork to be the richest known food in thiamine (Vitamin B1), popularly known as the nerve vitamin. And so nutritionists are suggesting that home-makers serve pork as frequently as it is available, to supply this important vitamin.

POINT-THRIFTY TOO
If thrift means getting good value for the amount spent, then pork shoulder steak is "point-thrifty"—only 7 points per pound.
And speaking of thrift, just look at the nutrition jewels you get served up with a pork steak (see chart below). A good way to judge nutritive value of any food is to compare the mineral and vitamin values against the caloric value. If the mineral and vitamin bars are just even with the calories, it is just holding its own—but when the length of the mineral and vitamin bars exceeds the caloric bar, then it can be considered a particularly nutritious food, the longer the bars the more valuable. Pork is especially valuable for its thiamine and, since surveys have shown that thiamine is one of the vitamins most likely to be lacking in the American diet, pork should be eaten often.
The health of the digestive tract is also aided by having sufficient Vitamin B1 in the diet. Unless thiamine is present, carbohydrate cannot be used by the body. For that reason, the more carbohydrate we eat, the more thiamine we need. So, when you're tempted to eat lots of candy (sugar is 100% carbohydrate) or starchy foods, be sure to eat more thiamine or in time you may show symptoms of thiamine deficiency, among which may be nervousness, tiredness, lack of pep, neuritis and impaired digestion. Sincerely, George Rector

Liquor Imports Set New Peak During August

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—(AP) Liquor is flowing into this country at an unprecedented rate, a Treasury report disclosed today, and importers said the current whisky shortage is proving a bonanza to Latin-American countries.

During August such imports, reflected by sales of internal revenue stamps, reached a record high of 3,785,000 gallons, contrasted to 967,000 gallons in the corresponding month a year ago and a pre-war monthly average of less than 1,000,000 gallons.

The report said the stamp sales covered 1,453,000 gallons from Puerto Rico alone, compared with 151,000 gallons a year ago.

Source of the other liquor is not shown, but importers declared the bulk of such shipments in recent months has consisted of Mexican and Cuban rum and gin, together with some tequila and a quantity of neutral spirits for use in blending stocks of American whisky.

Longest Mail Stage

Travels Alcan Route

DAWSON CREEK, B. C., Sept. 23.—(P)—U. S. Army trucks opened today what is described as the longest stage mail route in the world—the 1,000-mile overland route from Dawson Creek to Whitehorse, Yukon Territory, along the Alaska highway.

The 72-hour trip includes two mountain ranges. A daily northbound and southbound schedule is planned.

Grim Battle Months Ahead, Says Marshall

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—(AP)—General George C. Marshall asserted tonight that "we face grim months of fighting on all fronts all over the globe" and admonished the nation against being lulled by initial successes "into a false sense of easy victory."

The chief of staff, in an address prepared for the Army "back-the-attack" exhibit of war weapons here, referred to recent actions on far-flung fronts, and then said "We are, for the first time since the war started ready to deploy the tremendous American Army which the purchase of War Bonds has financed."

Reporting that Allied advances in the southwest Pacific and Solomons areas have been greatly accelerated, Marshall added that "in the China-Burma theater we are getting into a position to carry heavy fighting to the Japanese."

The present war, Marshall said, surpasses any in history in the wastage of military equipment. "No previous war," he said, "has approached such requirements as the present awful struggle. Tanks, jeeps, trucks, airplanes and artillery are inevitably destroyed by the hundreds on the battlefield even when the going is good.

"So far we have been extraordinarily fortunate, but even so the losses present a serious problem. The weapons and equipment must be replaced immediately.

BONDS VOTED.
PELHAM, Ga., Sept. 23.—(P)—Voters in a bond election here were unanimous in approving issuance of $13,000 in bonds for sewer extension work. The election was held during a terrific downpour.

Macon Has Highest

U. S. Rise in Living Cost

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—(P)—For the 12-month period August, 1942, through August, 1943, Macon, Ga., reported the largest increase in the nation in the cost of living, 8.2 per cent, and New Haven, Conn., the smallest, 2.1 per cent, the National Industrial Conference Board said today.

On a national scale it cost 4.8 per cent more to live last month than it did in August, 1942, and 19.5 per cent more than in January, 1941, the board said.

The cost of living for wage and low-salary workers was reported less than in July in 48 of 49 industrial cities surveyed, more in 18, and unchanged in three.

Average for the nation was a decline in cost of 0.3 per cent.

Surrender of Italian

Fleet Denied by Briton

LONDON, Sept. 23.—(P)—Viscount Cranborne, colonial secretary, told the house of lords today that the Italian fleet did not surrender to the Allies but "moved to designated points under the terms of the armistice."

"The future of the fleet," he added, "is under consideration."

His assertion caused surprise since previously the admiralty, in a message to Admiral Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham, Mediterranean commander in chief, said "on the occasion of the surrender of the Italian battle fleet their lordships send their warmest congratulations."

'Betrayal' of Rome Blamed on Higher-Ups

By FRANK BRUTTO.

ON THE SWISS-ITALIAN FRONTIER, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Rome was betrayed into German hands almost without a fight by "generals unwilling to resist and traitorous high officials," a Milan dispatch to the newspaper Libera Stampa at Lugano said tonight.

Sharp sporadic fighting flared in the Italian capital—a fact demonstrated by pictures appearing in Swiss newspapers showing blazing tanks in the background and smoke billowing up from the streets—but it was isolated, almost without direction. The bitter fighting was between Ostia and Rome, the Milan dispatch said. Defending Italian grenadiers lost more than 1,400 dead, it stated.

The Milan account of the events said: 1—The problem of resisting the Nazis was not military but political. Rome had arms. Weeks before the armistice, military authorities prepared for defense of the city. Fifteen days before the armistice on September 8 three army corps totaling about 180,000 men, of which nearly 100,000 were first line fighting troops, had been concentrated around Rome.

The dispatch did not bring out how such concentrations could have been gathered about the capital in this period, when the Italian government was reporting Rome was demilitarized and seeking to have it declared an open city.

2—The forces had been gathered around Rome for defense in case of an Allied landing in central Italy, the dispatch related, and included an armored division and strong anti-aircraft units.

3—A week before the armistice, plans for defending the city had been drawn and included five defense zones, each under a general. The generals never appeared at the scene of fighting and the plans remained on paper.

4—The day after the announcement of the armistice, it was learned that Italian military headquarters in Rome had been dissolved and that Premier Badoglio had left the city. Fighting broke out immediately but it was isolated.

5—The Fascists also took a hand in the deliverance of Rome to the Nazis. Blackshirted Fascists sided with the Germans and fired on Italian troops.

The Milan dispatch said there were similar occurrences at Turin, Genoa, Milan and Bologna. In each instance, a relatively small German force was aided in defeating Italian troops by "generals who were unwilling to resist, commanders who sabotaged and high officials who betrayed."

EVERY LOAF OF Southern Bread is enriched to standards approved by the U. S. Government. But more than that—at no extra cost—over and above government requirements—Southern Enriched Bread now gives you Vitamin D, the very important sunshine vitamin.

When you give your family plenty of Southern Enriched Bread you help keep them healthy and happy. You also make a patriotic contribution because the U. S. needs us strong, and Southern Enriched Bread is one of the basic victory foods that contributes to strength and health.

The recipe below shows you one of the many interesting ways in which you can use this low cost, plentiful, unrationed energy food. Save it for frequent reference.

HOME TESTED

ENGLISH BREAD & BUTTER PUDDING

A low-point dessert, credited to our English cousins who are famous for their puddings. Use any of your jams, jellies or marmalades, instead of sugar, and watch the family beam.

1 loaf stale bread
Butter
2 cups milk

Sugar
Powdered cinnamon
2 eggs
Dash of salt

Butter slices of bread, and arrange a layer of overlapping slices to cover bottom of buttered shallow baking dish. Sprinkle with sugar to taste and dust a little cinnamon over. Repeat layers of buttered bread, sugar and cinnamon until dish is filled.

Beat eggs until very light, add milk and salt. Blend well and pour over bread. Top with sprinkling of sugar and cinnamon. Bake at 375 degrees for 20 or 25 minutes. The custard should be set and the top slightly browned. If not browned, place under hot broiler for a moment.

'Smash Japs, Keep Hirohito,' Dr. Myers Says

DALTON, Ga., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Allied nations, after smashing the Japanese military machine, should encourage formation of a peaceable government in Japan without impairing authority of Emperor Hirohito, Dr. Harry Myers, former missionary, said in an interview here.

Dr. Myers, former head of a theological school in Japan and a missionary in that country 45 years, said the Emperor "holds a place of reverence in the hearts of the Japanese" and any harm done to him would stimulate opposition and bitterness among Japanese who would give most aid to the Allies when the country's military leaders are overthrown.

"General Doolittle," he said, "received specific orders to stay away from the imperial palace on the raid to Tokyo. This was a wise move of our leaders."

The former missionary said he knew from "confidences" that Hirohito was not in favor of war with America, adding "he advocated peace instead of conquest but the military machine in Japan rules and from all indications the Emperor is bitterly opposed to war."

Dr. Myers, now employed in a censorship post as a reader and translator of Japanese, came here to address the Georgia Presbyterian synod. In his talk to the ministers he told of work already accomplished in foreign fields and plans for the postwar period.

PENICILLIN PLANT. NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Charles Pfizer & Co., Brooklyn manufacturing chemists, today announced it will spend $150,000 for new facilities for the production of penicillin. The company, already an important producer of the wonder drug, will establish a new plant for which, according to officials, highest priorities of needed equipment have been obtained.

Milk Sales To Be Cut

In New York City Area

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Dr. Charles J. Blanford, regional director of the War Food Administration, announced today milk sales would be limited in the New York city area after October 1, and indicated belief the entire nation might be affected similarly.

Dr. Blanford told a group of milk dealers and inspectors that not only fluid milk but also cream, sour cream, skimmed milk, buttermilk, cottage cheese, pot cheese, baker's cheese and chocolate drinks containing milk would be limited in quantity to dealers.

House Group Has No Power To 'Oust' Cox

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—(AP) The House Judiciary Committee has notified Clifford J. Durr, member of the Federal Communications Commission, it has no jurisdiction to act on his petition for disqualification of Representative Cox, Democrat, Georgia, as a member of a special committee investigating the commission.

"The opinion seems to be general among the members of the (judiciary) committee, and is one in which I concur, that the committee has no jurisdiction," Chairman Sumners, Democrat, Texas, wrote Durr.

Sumners' letter, made public today, was in reply to a communication from Durr advising that he had filed a petition with Speaker Rayburn asking that Cox be disqualified because of "his bias and prejudice against the commission and also because of his personal interest."

This petition was referred to the Judiciary Committee by the speaker.

In his petition, Durr alleged acceptance by Cox of a fee for services to radio station WALB at Albany, Ga., in connection with its application for a license, and use of the fee to obtain $2,500 worth of stock of the Albany Herald Broadcasting Company, which Durr said was a party to an application then pending for a transfer of license.

Methodists At Gainesville To Pay Off Debt

GAINESVILLE, Ga., Sept. 23.—Sunday will be an eventful day in the history of the First Methodist church here, when a special service will be held in the morning to celebrate payment of an old debt which has existed for many years, according to the Rev. L. M. Twigg, pastor. Dr. Robert L. Russell, of McDonough, former pastor, will be the principal speaker.

Campaign for completion of the funds to retire the debt was made by the board of trustees, composed of Hayne Palmour, chairman; H. M. Newman, vice chairman; John Hosch, treasurer; W. C. Ham, C. B. Romberg, H. L. Gaines, Hammond Johnson, E. D. Kenyon. Assisting in the work was a committee composed of J. K. Telford, L. R. Sams, Ed Fennell, A. D. Wright and M. H. Jackson.

In addition to the sum raised to pay the debt, a substantial amount was secured to make necessary repairs upon the property, it was stated.

The church has had an active year, with 53 additions to its membership and all departments well organized, according to records.

Textile Production After War Assured

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—(AP) Capacity operation of U. S. textile mills "long after the war is over" is assured by known postwar textile requirements, Frank L. Walton, director of the War Production Board's textile division, said today.

Announcing his division is scheduling operations on the basis of recently completed postwar requirement surveys, Walton asserted:

"We are developing plans which we hope will permit continuous operation of textile plants. We hope to have these plans worked out plant by plant in the near future."

"Increased current production of textiles is vital to the war effort," Walton said. He reported that greater employment of women is easing labor shortages to some extent, and that production is expected to go up during the fall and winter, when summer absenteeism and vacations will no longer be important factors.

G. A. R. Is To Continue Annual Encampments

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 23.—(AP) Rejecting a proposal to discontinue their annual encampments for the duration of this war, the Grand Army of the Republic today chose Des Moines, Iowa, for their seventy-eighth meeting next year. Selected to lead them at that convention was George H. Jones, 94, of Oxford, Maine, named commander-in-chief by his fellow veterans by unanimous vote today.

Admiral Land Confident Of Shipbuilding Goal

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—(AP) Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the Maritime Commission, expressed confidence today that the 1943 shipbuilding goal of 19,000,000 deadweight tons—an increase of 140 per cent over last year—would be met despite a gain of only 50 per cent in labor.

Declaring that the nation has put out "more than 1,300 ships so far this year," Admiral Land said that "we confidently expect to produce more than the 19,000,000 deadweight tons we have scheduled."

House Passes Measure To Increase FHA Fund

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—(AP) A bill increasing by $400,000,000 the Federal Housing Authority's fund for insurance of loans for housing in war production areas was passed by the house today and sent to the senate.

The measure extends the life of the insurance operations from July 1, 1944, to July 1, 1945, and increases the authorization of insurance for war housing loans from $1,200,000,000 to $1,600,000,000.

RECIPE
Vanilla rennet-custard ice cream
(Automatic Refrigerator)
1 "Junket" Rennet Tablet 1/2 cup sugar
1 cup light cream 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
Dissolve "Junket" Rennet Tablet by crushing in 1 tablespoon cold water.
Mix light cream, sugar and vanilla. Warm slowly stirring constantly. When hot, remove at once from heat. Add dissolved rennet tablet and stir quickly for a few seconds only. Pour at once, while still liquid, into refrigerator tray. Do not move until firm—about 10 minutes; then place in refrigerator about 1/2 hour. Place in freezing compartment. Freeze until firm. Remove from tray to a bowl, break up with a fork and beat with electric or rotary beater until free from hard lumps but still a thick mush. Finish freezing. Serve this recipe—it is not in package.
